By JOSEPH MOHBAU
Associated Press Writer
ABILENE, Kan. (AP) — The body of Dwight David Eisenhower was laid to rest today at the end of the long trail that had carried him to the pinnacle of American military and political power.

The tomb of the 34th president of the United States was a vault — next to that of a long-dead son — beneath the floor of a tiny chapel near the Eisenhower Library in the quiet farm town of his youth.

Cannon boomed a 21-gun salute and riflemen loosed three volleys as the final rites for the general came to a close.

A bugler sounded Taps, the soldier's farewell.

As the honor guard handed the folded stars and stripes that had covered the five-star general's plain, GI coffin, to his widow, the strains of the West Point alma mater were heard by the hundreds massed in silence on the grounds of the Eisenhower Center.

Thus, with full military honors, the nation said goodbye to the man who had commanded a mighty Allied war machine to victory over Nazi Germany in World War II, then led the nation as president through eight years of peace.

The train bearing the body and the former president's family finally pulled into this town of 8,000 around dawn, after a long journey from Washington and a three-day state funeral.

A military honor guard watched over the coffin in its aged baggage car until the moment arrived for the beginning of the final tribute.

Workers Seek To Recover Miners' Bodies

BARROTERAN, Mexico (AP) — Rescue workers braved cave-ins, 100-degree heat and poison gas as they dug deep today in a soft-coal mine in which officials said between 151 and 155 Mexican miners were buried by an explosion two days ago.

Before dawn 23 bodies had been recovered. Nine officials said another 128 to 132 men were still trapped 450 feet underground. It was generally believed all were dead.

Seven experts of the U.S. Bureau of Mines in Washington are to reach this small mining town later today to advise Mexican authorities on faster removal of the dead and restoration of the shattered mine.

Juan Heitz, managing director of the Altos Hornos de Mexico S.A. mining concern that owns the diggings, said hours of checking assignment sheets still left the whereabouts of four men in doubt. This produced the uncertainty about the number of victims.

Heitz spoke of them all as "bodies" but emphasized: "We are changing nothing in our efforts. We are not stooping for a minute, even though there is no life, until every man is out."

The disaster was described by Gomez Sada, secretary of mining, as the worst in Mexico's mining history.

When methane gas exploded and set off a two-hour fire in the underground tunnels Monday afternoon, most of Barroteran's 8,000 population converged on the mine entrances. Troops had to hold them back.

By Tuesday grim resignation had set in.

Policeman Shot Down By Bandits

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — An off-duty Cleveland policeman and a bar owner were shot to death early today by three men during a holdup at an East Side bar.

A barmaid was wounded. Police picked up two men shortly after the shooting. They are being held for questioning.

Dead are Kenneth R. Houser, 25, the off-duty patrolman and Cliff Hatchett, 47, owner of the bar.

Three men entered the bar brandishing 22-caliber pistols and when Houser grabbed one of them, he was shot by the others, police said. The patrolman was hit in the head and leg and was dead on arrival at St. Luke's Hospital.

Hatchett was shot in the chest and taken to the hospital, where he died about five hours later.

Norma Sykes, 30, of Cleveland, the barmaid, was wounded in the leg and reported in fair condition.

Houser, a policeman for two years, had stopped at the bar after he got off work at the Fourth District.

City Council Holds Rezoning Ordinance For Third Reading

Circleville City Council held the reading of an ordinance to rezone the Smith and Wolfe property on South Court St. to a third reading during its meeting Tuesday.

The rezoning of the area, the two tracts total about 15 acres, has been requested by the Schottenstein Corporation of Columbus. The firm plans to build a shopping center there.

The area is presently zoned residential. Third Ward Councilman Harold Clifton last night promptly moved the ordinance be held for another reading immediately after Council Clerk Robert Shadley finished reading the legislation. His motion was seconded by Noble Barr.

The Circleville Planning and Zoning commission has recommended that the area be rezoned.

AN ordinance appropriating $4,500 to pay the Walter H. Drane Co. for re-codification of city ordinances was passed after a first reading. It was explained that the city will realize increased revenue through fines collected in Municipal Court if the present ordinances are up-dated.

An ordinance established tapping fees and assessments for developers and individuals wishing to connect to an established storm or sanitary sewer was held to a first reading.

Councilman Clifton told his fellow solons the legislation should be given thorough study before passed. A base tapping fee of $500 was set in the ordinance.

The ordinance was presented in order to establish the fee to protect developers and residents who had already been assessed for the construction of storm and sanitary sewers.

Council held to a first reading an ordinance requesting the annexation of a tract of land along Route 188 adjacent to the city limits.

David Crawford requested the ordinance be read at last night's meeting. Crawford pointed out that a deadline for action on the annexation was approaching.

CITY Council also passed a resolution which approved the sale of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. to the American Electric Co.

Councilmen explained the resolution was merely a formality which was requested by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.

It was brought to the attention of Council by the City Auditor, Marvene Turner, that she could not pay Service Director Earl Radcliff while he was in the hospital because he was

Cleo Keaton Sane; Awaits Execution

Cleo Vernon Keaton, found guilty of murder by a Pickaway County jury, was declared sane Tuesday by Franklin County Common Pleas Judge Myron Gessaman.

Keaton, 33, Dayton, was scheduled to be executed Nov. 8, 1968, for the 1965 shooting of Maurice Francis of Williamsport.

His execution was postponed by Governor James A. Rhodes at the request of Ohio Penitentiary Warden, Harold Cardwell.

Cardwell stated that Keaton "did not act like a sane man," and asked for a sanity hearing.

IN HIS decision Tuesday, Judge Gessaman pointed out that there is no legislation in Ohio that defines "insanity."

"However it is generally held in Ohio that a person can be executed if the prisoner has sufficient intelligence to understand the proceeding against him, what he is tried for, the purpose of his punishment, the punishment awaiting him and can recognize any fact that would make his punishment unjust or unlawful and can relate that information to his attorney," the judge said.

Conflicting testimony was presented regarding Keaton during the two-day sanity hearings.

Dr. Joseph Trevino stated that although Keaton was aware of the punishment awaiting him he was not able to consult with his attorney rationally because his thinking had become so inflexible. Keaton wants to die and that fact fogs all his thinking, stated Trevino.

Dr. John Vermuelen stated at the hearing that Keaton is seriously disturbed and is suffering from damage to the brain.

Dr. Mahmud Faruki testified that Keaton has been ill for a long time and that his behavior is characteristic of a schizophrenic.

THE psychiatrist for Lima State Hospital for the Criminally Insane, Dr. Alexander Chomyn, contradicted the other doctors by stating that Keaton is well and in good contact with reality.

A new execution date has not been set.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Classes resumed in nearby Struthers today after teachers voted to accept an offer of salary increases and fringe benefits from the Board of Education.

All increases and fringes go into effect next September if an operating levy is passed by voters in May. The board meets this week to decide how much the levy should be.

The Struthers Education Association called a professional study day Tuesday and classes were called off for 3,250 students in the district.

Ask FTC To Ban Service Station Giveaway Games

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission, under attack as a do-nothing agency, has been called on to finally take action on gas station games—the giveaways denounced by critics as deceptive, fraudulent and costly to unprotected consumers.

The commission, ending six weeks of hearings on the matter today, was asked on one hand to ban the games entirely. On the other were claims that the FTC doesn't have the right to take any action involving the games. In between were calls for the agency to try regulating the games before considering a total ban.

Before the hearings began, an FTC staff report denounced the games as deceptive, fraudulent and costly to consumers who were said to have only a slight chance, if any, to win a prize. The staff report charged the cost of the games, also used by food stores, are passed on to the consumer in the form of higher prices.

Seven leading producers of the retail games pleaded today with the commissioners to try regulating them before issuing an outright ban.

The Humble Oil Co., however, denied Tuesday that the commission even has the authority to regulate—much less ban—the games.

Of all the major oil companies, only Atlantic Richfield urged the FTC to prohibit the promotions, although representatives of retail gasoline dealers urged it last month to outlaw them completely.

The retailers said they were forced to use the games by the national oil companies as part of their franchises.

An Atlantic Richfield spokesman said the games had become so widely used that one company's promotions are offset by another's and continued use will only stir further public disfavor.

But the company contended that one company cannot abandon the games unilaterally without being placed at a competitive disadvantage and federal action is essential.

Complicating the matter have been charges by some consumer advocates, such as Ralph Nader, that the FTC has done nothing to protect the buying citizen.

Pope Decries Rebellion In Church

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI said today the very existence of the Roman Catholic Church is threatened by the "restless, critical, unruly and demolishing rebellion" of priests and laymen.

The pontiff said the rebellion was against the Church's canon rule, its tradition and its authority.

He also assailed prelates who have quit the Church and said their "scandal" crucified the Church.

The Pope's statements on revolt and defection in the Church came during his weekly general audience devoted to the sufferings of Christ during Holy Week.

Many pilgrims and tourist gathering in Rome for Easter Week ceremonies were among the crowd of 8,000 at the audience in St. Peter's Basilica.

"The Church suffers above all," Pope Paul said, "from the restless, critical, unruly and demolishing rebellion of so many of its children—priests, teachers, laymen, those devoted to the service and the testimony of Christ in the living Church—against its intimate and indispensable communion, against its institutional existence, against its canon rule, its tradition, its interior cohesion, against its authority, the unchangeable principle of truth, unity, and charity against its very requirements of sanctity and sacrifice."

"It suffers from the defection and the scandal of certain priests and religious who today crucify the Church."

State Senate OKs Bill To Delay Tax Changes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Senate passed and sent to the House Tuesday legislation that would delay for three years any action on an Ohio Supreme Court order for uniform statewide assessment of real property.

The bill would allow the Board of Tax Appeals to delay setting the uniform assessment until 1972.

In arguing for passage, Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-Cincinnati, sponsor of the bill, said the court handed the board a "task impossible of immediate solution."

Maloney, chairman of the Senate Ways and Means Committee, said that if the tax board set the assessment at 40 per cent of true value as it is now considering, there would be "chaos" in real property tax collections.

He said taxes for residential and agricultural property owners would increase in 86 out of the state's 88 counties.

Maloney said his bill, passed 28-1, permits "a gradual and orderly adjustment over the next three years." The three-year delay, he said, will permit completion of county reappraisals and give the board, county auditors and the legislature time to analyze the problem.

Several senators, including Howard C. Cook, R-1, Toledo, questioned the constitutionality of the bill. But Cook noted that "by the time the constitutionality is questioned, the problem will be resolved."

In other action, the Senate passed two bills, each 29-1, allowing state chartered building and loan associations to form service corporations and requiring the home county of a deceased person to pay autopsy costs when death occurs in another county.

Major legislative action in the House came with the introduction of several potentially controversial bills, including the administration's long-awaited education tax measure.

Rep. Allen Bartunek, R-54, Cleveland Heights, introduced a bill to expand Ohio's fair housing law to include prohibitions of discrimination in the rental and sale of single-family homes. Similar to one submitted earlier in the Senate, Bartunek's bill grew out of recommendations of the Substandard Housing Study Committee.

Measures introduced by Reps. Joseph R. Tulley, R-37, Mentor and Patrick A. Sweeney, D-47, Cleveland, deal with metropolitan housing authorities. One would confine housing authority projects to urban renewal in the slums, while the other would make county commissioners the only members of the authorities.

Other House bills introduced were ones which would: —Permits school districts to to gether o form a maximum of 40 education resource centers across the state. The bill is identical to one submitted earlier in the Senate.

—Create a bureau of consumer protection in the attorney general's office.

—Validate liquor permits in former dry areas that have become wet as a result of annexation.

Bills introduced in the Senate would:

—Lower the age for firemen from 21 to 18.

—Provide that divorces would not become final until six months after being granted.

—Prohibit school districts from providing services, materials or programs for use in religious instruction.

Truck Accident Damage Heavy

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A tractor-trailer rig loaded with 40,000 pounds of general cargo smashed into a car at an intersection, then veered and rammed into a supermarket at a downtown intersection here early today.

The rig ripped down 45 feet of wall and a section of ceiling at the Joseph Bros. store, causing damage estimated by Philip Joseph at $50,000 to $60,000.

Albert Payne of Southgate, Mch., driver of the rig, and Mihaly Duleba of Toledo, driver of the car, escaped serious injury although the car was demolished.

Would Admit Income Tax By Side Door

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Tax proposals contained in Gov. James A. Rhodes' omnibus education bill received little enthusiasm from Republican and Democratic lawmakers.

House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess, admitting that his colleagues were uneasy about the possibility of enacting new taxes, predicted that the bill, introduced in the House Tuesday, would "undergo some substantial revision."

"The people aren't going to be enthusiastic about any new tax," said the Perryburg Republican, adding that it's a matter of determining whether the program is worth the cost.

"We will have to weigh the tax aspect against the program aspect," Kurfess said.

Democratic leaders praised the administration for its "willingness to broaden the school tax base . . ." but said the administration appears to be buck-passing by proposing a "permissive" county income tax.

The bill calls for a 1 to 2 per cent county income tax, with 75 per cent of it earmarked for education, and a 1.25 per cent vendor's excise tax.

While the bill calls the county income tax "permissive," counties failing to enact it would not be eligible for state foundation money.

The bill also requires districts to levy at least 20 mills of property taxes, instead of the current 17.5 mills, to qualify for foundation money.

The legislation seeks to equalize per-pupil cost of education between districts. Each school district would receive a share of the county income tax in proportion to the number of its students.

Parochial schools also would receive a share of the tax money, with use of the funds limited to tuition aid, teacher salaries, books and purchasing services.

The President cleared his schedule of all other events Tuesday to meet with the officials before flying today to the Eisenhower funeral in Abilene, Kan., and then on to Key Biscayne, Fla. for the weekend.

While briefing newsmen on the meetings, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler made no mention of a private session Monday night with the Soviet funeral delegation.

He did mention five other private meetings Nixon had the same night. But when asked about the session with Marshall Vasily Chuykov and other members of the Soviet delegation Ziegler at first hedged.

Then he said Nixon had talked to the Soviet representatives for five or 10 minutes in his living quarters.

The President held individual conferences Tuesday with a dozen other leaders including Nguyen Cao Ky, vice president of South Vietnam.

Curb On B52s Brings Rumors

May Be Presented As De-Escalation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomats speculated today that a projected cut in B52 flights against targets in South Vietnam and Laos might be presented by the United States in the Paris peace talks as a de-escalation of the war.

Nixon administration officials say privately, as Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird emphasized publicly Tuesday, that the reason for the planned reduction is not diplomatic but financial. Laird said his department had to cut military costs.

The rate of sorties for the B52's has been running at 1,800 a month. Under the budget proposed for fiscal year 1970 which begins next July 1, the rate would be cut back to 1,600 a month. This could mean simply that fewer planes would be involved in any particular raid. It would not necessarily mean fewer targets would be hit.

Nevertheless, persons familiar with the Paris peace talks said the significant diplomatic aspects of the reduction is that it continues the de-escalation which began a year ago when President Johnson limited the bombing of North Vietnam. This was followed by a lull in offensive operations on the enemy side last summer and fall and by some North Vietnamese troop removals from the South. This finally produced the end of bombing of the North Nov. 1.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, had recommended that the B52 operations be continued at a high level and Laird had said two weeks ago he thought money should be provided for that purpose through June 1970.

In arguing for passage, Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, sponsor of the bill, said the court handed the board a "task impossible of immediate solution."

Maloney, chairman of the Senate Ways and Means Committee, said that if the tax board set the assessment at 40 per cent of true value as it is now considering, there would be "chaos" in real property tax collections.

He said taxes for residential and agricultural property owners would increase in 86 out of the state's 88 counties.

Maloney said his bill, passed 28-1, permits "a gradual and orderly adjustment over the next three years."

The three-year delay, he said, will permit completion of county reappraisals and give the board, county auditors and the legislature time to analyze the problem.

of the bill. But Cook noted that "by the time the constitutionality is questioned, the problem will be resolved."

In other action, the Senate passed two bills, each 29-1, allowing state chartered building and loan associations to form service corporations and requiring the home county of a deceased person to pay autopsy costs when death occurs in another county.

Major legislative action in the House came with the introduction of several potentially controversial bills, including the administration's long-awaited education-tax measure.

Rep. Allen Bartunek, R-54 Cleveland Heights, introduced a bill to expand Ohio's fair housing law to include prohibitions of discrimination in the rental and sale of single-family homes. Similar to one submitted earlier in the Senate, Bartunek's bill grew out of recommendations of the Substandard Housing Study Committee.

Measures introduced by Reps. Joseph R. Tulley, R-37 Mentor and Patrick A. Sweeney, D-47 Cleveland, deal with metropolitan housing authorities. One would confine housing authority projects to urban renewal in the slums, while the other would make county commissioners the only members of the authorities.

Other House bills introduced were ones which would:

—Permits school districts to to gather a form a maximum of 40 education resource centers across the state. The bill is identical to one submitted earlier in the Senate.

—Create a bureau of consumer protection in the attorney general's office.

—Validate liquor permits in former dry areas that have become wet as a result of annexation.

Bills introduced in the Senate would:

—Lower the age for firemen from 21 to 18.

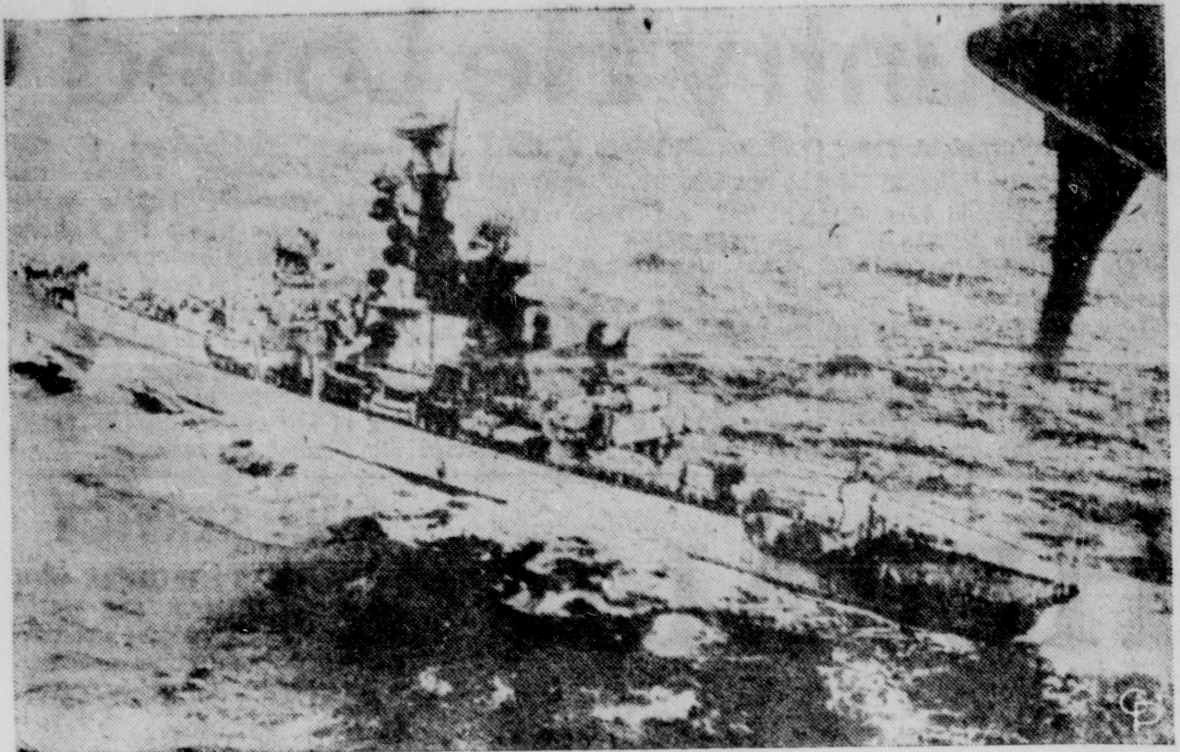

—Provide that divorces would not become final until six months after being granted.

boards of education would be replaced by councils of education. The councils would have the authority to approve all school construction and programming in school districts in their counties and would distribute all federal, state and county funds.

Regional service centers would be established to provide transportation purchasing, data processing and special education.

The bill also would require that vocational education programs be operated in comprehensive high schools if the school district has enough pupils to support them.

To equalize distribution of funds on the state level, the bill provides that the state foundation formula be changed to reduce or eliminate assistance to wealthy districts. The foundation formula would guarantee a base cost per pupil in every district of the state.

Shortly after the bill was introduced, the Ohio Education Association announced it was in general agreement with the aims of Rhodes' school financing plan, but said it would seek a mandatory county income tax.

"We believe this bill can become the vehicle to help meet the great unmet needs facing public schools in our state," said OEA President Louis Koenig.

Senate Minority Leader Charles J. Carney, D - 33 Youngstown, and John C. McDonald, D - 19 Newark, also indicated they felt a mandatory income tax would be more suitable.

They said a permissive income tax would be jeopardized by the failure of county commissioners to impose it or by voter rejection on a referendum.

Carney and McDonald also voiced opposition to the vendor's tax proposal, saying it "adds to the regressive character of Ohio's tax structure."

The Ohio State Council of Retail Merchants called the excise tax proposal "unfair and discriminatory" and said it would "exert every proper effort to prevent passage."

The council said the tax would cost Ohio merchants more than $175 million a year. The administration said the tax would produce about $132 million annually.

The bill was introduced by four Republicans, Mark C. Schinnerer of Lakewood, Charles R. Fry of Springfield, Thomas A. Pottenger of Cincinnati and Ralph E. Fisher of Wooster.

But the sponsors indicated they were not in accord with every section of the bill. Fry said he felt it was only "an excellent vehicle for legislative consideration."

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has been asked to grant the federal government title to all submerged lands from about three miles off the Atlantic Coast to the end of the Continental Shelf.

The Justice Department brought the action Tuesday to settle a dispute with the 13 coastal states.

All the states from Florida to Maine are defendants. They claim title to lands extending 100 miles from their shores.

The state of Maine triggered the Justice Department action by issuing a permit last year granting oil and gas rights for about 3.3 million acres in the disputed areas.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The director of the Census Bureau says the government needs to know how many children a woman has had, and that females who have been asked to answer the question seldom complain.

A. Ross Eckler also says officials must know if a family shares its bathroom with anyone in order to identify the location of substandard housing.

"If the questions weren't important," he told the House subcommittee on census and statistics, "they wouldn't be asked."

The census "provides essential information about the country and its people and homes," Eckler said Tuesday. "The results are required for the conduct of essential government services and program by the federal, state and local governments."

Committee members, however, echoed the sentiments of many of the census's critics in questioning most of the information to be sought by the bureau in 1970.

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., did not think a person should be jailed for refusing to tell the bureau how many toilets he had in his home.

"There has been a need to identify those who live in substandard housing," Eckler said. Rep. Thomas J. Meskill, R-Conn., questioned the need for knowing how many babies a woman has had.

"You need it for the study of population change," replied Eckler.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel today called the lower Potomac River "a national disgrace" and urged a strong action program to clean it up.

Hickel expressed his views in a statement prepared for the opening of a three-day water pollution enforcement conference on the Potomac.

Last March 21 Hickel issued a report by the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration proposing a plan for cleaning up the river at a cost of up to $500 million.

The enforcement conference — composed of representatives of Maryland, Virginia, the District of Columbia, and the federal government — is considering those recommendations.

"We are here today to put it quite simply — because the recommendations for corrective action approved by the conferences in 1957 and 1958 have not been fulfilled," Hickel said today. "Delay is the friend of pollution."

WASHINGTON (AP) — A city council resolution urges municipal officials and businessmen in Washington to take steps Friday to commemorate the first anniversary of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The resolution was passed Tuesday after a group of more than 150 Negro demonstrators disrupted a city council meeting demanding that Friday be declared a holiday to honor the slain civil rights leader.

Some councilmen doubted if they or the mayor have the power to declare a city-wide holiday.

The council resolution suggests the business community and citizens of Washington observe "to the extent possible" the anniversary of the assassination.

Mao Making Last Big Effort To Mold Red China His Way

TOKYO (AP) — Red China's ninth Communist party congress, which opened in Peking Tuesday, is Mao Tse-tung's last great effort to remake his nation.

In the early days of his 20-year-old regime, when he held the reins of both the party and the government, he sought to impose his will through both. Rebellions in the army and at the top of the Communist hierarchy blasted his dreams.

In 1966, placing his faith in a great mass movement dubbed the "Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution," Mao tried to achieve mastery through revolutionary committees modeled on the Paris Communes in 1871.

The breakdown of party and government which accompanied his epic purge thrust the often unreliable army into a position of dangerous leadership. Mao countered by decreeing, fruitlessly, that the workers and peasants should take over the revolution.

Now, finally, he has had to fall back on the party he spurned and shattered. He is trying to rebuild it on Maoist lines from the shambles it had become.

The task of the party congress is to revise the constitution to include Mao's political philosophy, designate Defense Minister Lin Biao his successor and name a new central committee for the party.

Mao, now 75 and nearing the end of his turbulent revolutionary life, is taking no chances on failure this time. The 1,512 delegates have been handpicked rather than elected. As the opening-day communique put it, they were chosen "through full democratic consultation by party organizations at various levels and after extensively seeking the opinion of the broad masses."

The criterion for membership was simple: loyalty to Mao.

Three Injured In Two Unrelated Auto Accidents

Two unrelated one-car injury accidents were recorded by the local post of the State Highway Patrol recently.

David Owens, 18, Route 2, received lacerations to his head after he fell asleep at the wheel of his car about 2:45 a.m. Wednesday and struck a light pole at the south end of South Bloomfield on Route 23.

He was treated and released from Berger Hospital.

In the other accident Homer Spence, 20, Orient, and Ralph Stiltner, 18, Route 1, Orient, were injured. Both were taken to Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus, where Spence was treated for an injured lip and Stiltner for head lacerations.

Spence was southbound on Welch Road just south of Franklin-Pickaway County line about 11 p.m. Tuesday when he lost control of his car, according to Patrolman E. J. Keegan.

The Spence car went off the right side of the road and struck a telephone pole. Stiltner was thrown against the windshield at the time of the accident.

No citations were issued by the patrol.

of substandard housing. "If the questions weren't important," he told the House subcommittee on census and statistics, "they wouldn't be asked."

The census "provides essential information about the country and its people and homes," Eckler said Tuesday. "The results are required for the conduct of essential government services and program by the federal, state and local governments."

Committee members, however, echoed the sentiments of many of the census's critics in questioning most of the information to be sought by the bureau in 1970.

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., did not think a person should be jailed for refusing to tell the bureau how many toilets he had in his home.

"There has been a need to identify those who live in substandard housing," Eckler said. Rep. Thomas J. Meskill, R-Conn., questioned the need for knowing how many babies a woman has had.

"You need it for the study of population change," replied Eckler.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel today called the lower Potomac River "a national disgrace" and urged a strong action program to clean it up.

Hickel expressed his views in a statement prepared for the opening of a three-day water pollution enforcement conference on the Potomac.

Last March 21 Hickel issued a report by the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration proposing a plan for cleaning up the river at a cost of up to $500 million.

The enforcement conference—composed of representatives of Maryland, Virginia, the District of Columbia, and the federal government—is considering those recommendations.

"We are here today—to put it quite simply—because the recommendations for corrective action approved by the conference in 1957 and 1958 have not been fulfilled," Hickel said today. "Delay is the friend of pollution."

WASHINGTON (AP) — A city council resolution urges municipal officials and businessmen in Washington to take steps Friday to commemorate the first anniversary of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The resolution was passed Tuesday after a group of more than 150 Negro demonstrators disrupted a city council meeting demanding that Friday be declared a holiday to honor the slain civil rights leader.

Some councilmen doubted if they or the mayor have the power to declare a city-wide holiday.

The council resolution suggests the business community and citizens of Washington observe "to the extent possible" the anniversary of the assassination.

classified as part time help in the annual pay ordinance passed this year by council.

Councilman Crawford requested the mayor and his fellow councilmen to enact any necessary legislation to enable the city to pay Radcliff while he is unable to work.

Mayor Gerhardt stated that in his opinion the service director was an appointed official of the city and as such could receive his salary. He informed council that he would study the situation, and if legislation is needed, he would have it ready at the next session.

Radcliff is a patient in University Hospital. He suffered a heart attack recently.

A letter from the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce recommending that the city take action to supply water to adjacent areas of the city be taken. It was referred to committee for further study.

A LETTER from residents of Hayward Ave. requesting that a street light be installed at the end of the street and that a "Dead End" sign be installed was read and referred to the service committee for study.

Councilman David Goldschmidt stated he had looked at the area where the light was requested and noted that it was dark.

Mayor Gerhardt urged council to attend the next four sessions of the Planning and Zoning commission. He said that the Master Plan will be discussed at these meetings.

Mao Making Last Big Effort To Mold Red China His Way

TOKYO (AP) — Red China's ninth Communist party congress, which opened in Peking Tuesday, is Mao Tse-tung's last great effort to remake his nation.

In the early days of his 20-year-old regime, when he held the reins of both the party and the government, he sought to impose his will through both. Rebellions in the army and at the top of the Communist hierarchy blasted his dreams.

In 1966, placing his faith in a great mass movement dubbed the "Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution," Mao tried to achieve mastery through revolutionary committees modeled on the Paris Communes in 1871.

The breakdown of party and government which accompanied his epic purge thrust the often unreliable army into a position of dangerous leadership. Mao countered by decreeing, fruitlessly, that the workers and peasants should take over the revolution.

Now, finally, he has had to fall back on the party he spurned and shattered. He is trying to rebuild it on Maoist lines from the shambles it had become.

The task of the party congress is to revise the constitution to include Mao's political philosophy, designate Defense Minister Lin Biao his successor and name a new central committee for the party.

Mao, now 75 and nearing the end of his turbulent revolutionary life, is taking no chances on failure this time. The 1,512 delegates have been handpicked rather than elected. As the opening-day communique put it, they were chosen "through full democratic consultation by party organizations at various levels and after extensively seeking the opinion of the broad masses."

The criterion for membership was simple: loyalty to Mao.

He was treated and released from Berger Hospital.

In the other accident Homer Spence, 20, Orient, and Ralph Stiltner, 18, Route 1, Orient, were injured. Both were taken to Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus, where Spence was treated for an injured lip and Stiltner for head lacerations.

Spence was southbound on Welch Road just south of Franklin-Pickaway County line about 11 p.m. Tuesday when he lost control of his car, according to Patrolman E. J. Keegan.

The Spence car went off the right side of the road and struck a telephone pole. Stiltner was thrown against the windshield at the time of the accident.

No citations were issued by the patrol.

The incidents are presently under investigation, said the sheriff.

Lodge Tells Of Ike's Reluctance To Go Into Politics

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower regarded his decision to run for president as his bitterest moment, but agreed to seek the office after being convinced it was his duty, according to Henry Cabot Lodge, who managed the 1952 campaign.

"If it became my duty to run for president," Eisenhower told Lodge in June, 1950, "I would do it. But it would be the bitterest moment of my life."

Lodge, then a Massachusetts senator, had gone to see the general at Columbia University, where Eisenhower served for a time as president. Ambassador Lodge, now U.S. representative at the Paris peace talks, told of the meeting today.

"I said that it might become his duty to run for president. I didn't think that Sen. Taft (the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, R-Ohio) could be elected. I considered that his foreign policy views were out of date."

"When I used the word 'duty' Eisenhower got up and walked up and down the room. And after he said he would do it but it would be his bitterest moment, he repeated again he would run if it proved to be his duty."

Lodge was not the first to ask Eisenhower to run for President. In fact, while he was running the allied war effort in Europe, both parties sought him out as a potential candidate.

There have been published reports that President Harry S. Truman offered the 1948 Democratic presidential nomination to Eisenhower. Truman reportedly offered to run as Eisenhower's vice presidential candidate.

There were further efforts by the Democrats to get the general to head their ticket for the 1952 campaign.

To all these and other efforts Eisenhower said no in firm and seemingly complete tones.

In 1948, after public urgings by Leonard V. Funder, then publisher of the Manchester (N.H.) Evening Leader, that he run for president as a Republican, Eisenhower replied:

"I am not available for and could not accept nomination to high political office... It is my conviction that the necessary and wise subordination of the military to civil power will be best sustained, and our people will have greater confidence that it is so sustained, when life-long professional soldiers, in absence of some obvious and overriding reasons, abstain from seeking high political office... My decision to remove myself completely from the political scene is definite and positive... I could not accept nomination even under the remote circumstances that it were tendered me."

Lodge and other moderate Republicans had continued their efforts after 1950 to make Eisenhower see his "duty."

Lodge said that he spoke to Eisenhower about running again when he visited him in September 1951 in Paris where Eisenhower, on leave as Columbia president, was organizing NATO forces.

In the Paris meeting, Lodge said, "I told him he had until January to make up his mind."

"I'm glad I've got that much time," Eisenhower replied. As the day of decision approached a group of Eisenhower backers met in New York in November, 1951, including New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican presidential candidate in 1944 and 1948.

"This group had been looking for a manager to run Gen. Eisenhower's campaign," Lodge said. "I had thought the manager should come from Kansas or Missouri. It never crossed my mind that I would become the manager. But in the end the Midwest people agreed on me."

"Then we started in putting on a campaign. And we put it on without any permission from Ike. He knew about it—but we

Biafra Snubs Wilson Bid

LAGOS (AP) — Biafran officials Tuesday cold shouldered Prime Minister Harold Wilson's offer to meet with their leader, Lt. Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu. They accused Wilson of a "political and propaganda maneuver."

Wilson, stopping in the Ethiopian capital of Addis Ababa on his way home, had said earlier he was still hopeful because Ojukwu had not personally rejected his invitation for a meeting somewhere in Africa.

Wilson met today with Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie and Secretary-General Diallo Telli of the Organization of African Unity, who have tried unsuccessfully to bring the Nigerians and the Biafrans together again.

Biafran forces claimed today they are repelling a massive three-pronged Nigerian attack at Uzuakoli, north of the secessionist capital of Umuahia. A spokesman said fighting has raged since Saturday.

didn't have any permission from him to do it."

In January 1952, Lodge held a Sunday afternoon news conference. He said he was satisfied that Eisenhower was a Republican and had therefore entered the general's name in the New Hampshire GOP presidential primary.

"Naturally the newspapers wanted to know what Eisenhower thought about all this so they called his headquarters in Paris," Lodge said. "They got hold of some colonel who said that Eisenhower had never heard of it."

"On Wednesday following the Sunday announcement, Ike said 'Yes' he was a Republican and that he knew me and liked me. That made his position, of course, pretty evident."

"We had the New Hampshire primary and I didn't want Eisenhower even to come back for it. There had been some optimistic talks and we could've looked badly if Taft had gotten one or two votes. So we who were running the campaign didn't want to involve him in it. But we carried the primary all right, taking all the votes."

"I went to see him in April 1952, and he came back in June and made a speech at Abilene, Kan. It was his first speech in a political context."

No Skirmish

Public officials and private citizens alike are in agreement that organized crime has reached such proportions only a genuine concerted effort can reverse its growth. Testimony to Congress recently by the attorney general frankly admitted not a single Mafia family had been broken up despite years of effort to do so.

In spite of all the evidence, anytime the subject of wiretapping comes up, suddenly many people have a change of heart. Admittedly, the idea of someone—for any purpose — listening in on a private conversation is repulsive. But it is equally obvious that without such surveillance techniques there is almost no possibility of a meaningful attack on crime. Not to mention the use of eavesdropping devices in matters affecting national security.

Arguments against wiretapping in criminal and security cases are reminiscent of complaints by some motorists against speed traps, unmarked police cars and radar as a speed check. There is something "unfair" about using such "underhanded" tactics, so the complaints go.

The war on crime is as much a war in every sense of the word as the hostilities in Vietnam. It cannot be fought with kid gloves, nor by adhering to some cavalier sense of gentlemen's rules. Nor will it succeed until the courts, the legislative bodies — both federal and state — and most of all, the public, recognize the seriousness of the situation.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Doctors are making fewer home calls than ever. Ten years ago 10.2 per cent of the average physician's contacts with his patients were in their homes. Now it's down to 3.3 per cent, or one out of 30.

How long should a mattress last? A survey found that mattresses in motels averaged 14 years of age, those in hotels 5 years. But some 25 years old were reported—and still bearing up. Mattresses for household use are often guaranteed for 20 years.

A wife feels underprivileged now if she doesn't have at least two bathrooms in her home. But when Queen Victoria ascended the throne of England in 1837, there wasn't a single bathroom in all Buckingham Palace. Servants lugged jars of hot water to the queen's bedroom, where she bathed in a portable tub, just as did the commoners of her day.

Women don't have very high standing among the bushmen in Africa's Kalahari area. They are never taken along on a hunt or even allowed to touch arrows, reports the National Geographic Society. The men fear the women would bring bad luck.

One reason houseflies don't spread more contagion is that they are homebodies. They usually remain for life within a mile of their breeding place.

Our quotable notables: "The history of free men is never written by chance but by choice—their choice."—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Odd claims to fame: Most wine is stored underground because the temperature there is more constant. But the Rainbow Room here claims to have the "Highest wine cellar" in the world. It stores more than 3,000 bottles in its restaurant quarters atop the 65-story RCA Building in Rockefeller Center.

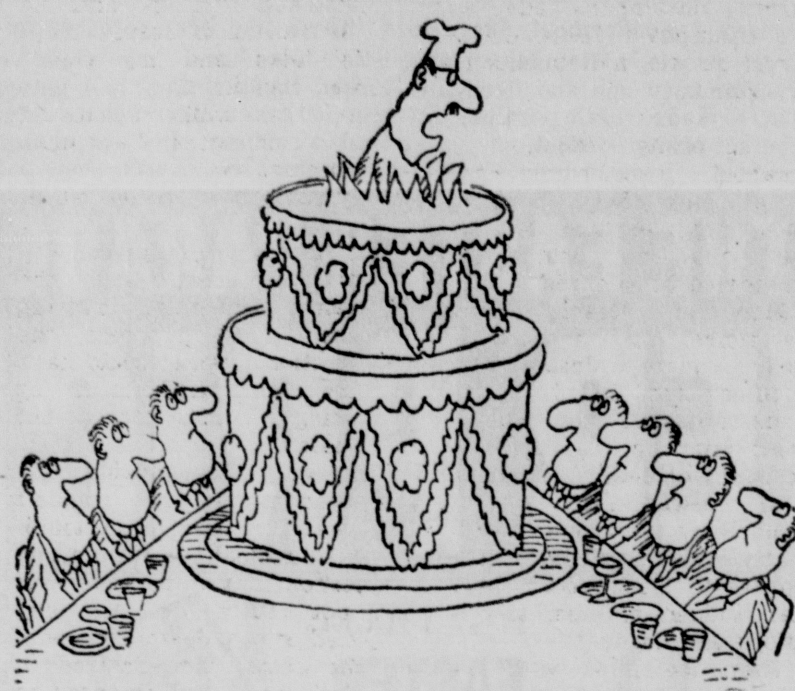

Perils of progress: Each year up to 1,500 Americans die and 100,000 suffer injuries because their clothing catches fire. One cause: the increasing use of flammable fabrics. What to do in such an emergency: force the victim to drop to the ground. If no rug, coat or wool blanket is handy to wrap him in, roll him over and over to smother the flames.

Youth must be served: You may be getting older but the population of the world isn't. It's estimated that by 1986 some 30 per cent of all the people alive will be aged 15 years or less.

Nostalgic thought: Whatever happened to: five-cent phone calls? Girls' pony tails? Boys' crew cuts? Ten-cent hamburgers? Rumble seats? Law and order?

It was Aldous Huxley who observed, "Experience is not what happens to a man. It is what a man does with what happens to him."

"I'm sorry, gentlemen . . . Miss LaRue has the flu."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A NAG WHO STARTED LIFE pulling an ice wagon worked his way up in the world to the day he came in first in the Kentucky Derby. Obviously, this was one horse with a whinny way.

One of America's most glamorous stars—equally famous on Broadway and in Beverly Hills—had a chance recently to hire that rarest of treasures—a perfectly trained French maid. The maid gracefully accepted the job—with one proviso: "We'll get along just fine if you'll just keep fancy actors and actresses out of the house. They drive me crazy."

The star promised to do her best. Six months have passed, and she confesses, "That maid still doesn't know I have anything to do with the theatre. I'm giving what is undoubtedly my finest performance!"

QUICKIES:

Little Rosemary's alibi for missing school for a week was not convincing, but at least it was original. She told her teacher, "I had intentional flu."

On the door of a telephone booth at the first tee of a Dallas golf course, somebody's posted this warning: "Kindly do not drop money in while golfers are teeing off."

An extra-dividend of a college education: It keeps the boss' son away from the business for four more years!

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

There are few more painful conditions than tic douloureux or trigeminal neuralgia. The cause of this sudden sharp pain and spasm of the side of the face is still unknown. For a time it was suspected that infection of the teeth, the sinuses, and inflammation of the jaw joint were responsible for this exceedingly painful condition. I am afraid that our knowledge of controlling the pain is greater than our knowledge of its cause.

Sometimes the attack may come on several times a week and at other times there might be an interval of months. There seems to be no way to anticipate it.

A number of different drugs have been used to control the pain, but these are only temporary. When the condition persists and incapacitates a person, injections directly into the nerve are used with great success. Alcohol and local anesthetics have been remarkably effective in controlling the condition for long periods of time. A rather new "hot water" injection has been used with a fair amount of success. When drugs cannot control the painful spasms, surgery has been used. Many types of operations have been devised. The choice, of course, depends on the particular surgeon and his experience.

At the turn of the century, a condition known as emphysema of the chest cavity was a frequent complication of respiratory and lung infections. This condition is an accumulation of fluid between the layers of the pleura which cover the lung and line the chest wall. The use of the antibiotics has reduced the frequency of this severe disease and has almost completely eradicated the need for the extensive surgery that was formerly done to cure it.

Emphysema must not be confused with emphysema, another complication of chronic lung conditions. This latter is a most serious aftermath of cigarette smoking, air pollution, and long-standing exposure to factory fumes. Unfortunately, the antibiotics have not been able to contribute as much to the control of emphysema as they have to emphysema.

Occasionally, people who have allergic children avoid vaccinating them because of their fear of possible dangers. One such case recently came to my attention when the polio vaccine was not administered for this reason.

Vaccines are made in many different ways and therefore there is no universal answer to this important question that arises in the minds of physicians and parents. The advantages of the modern polio, measles, mumps, tetanus, diphtheria, and whooping cough vaccines are astounding and should not be kept from children unless physicians specifically deny their use.

Even in highly allergic children there are ways of giving vaccines in small doses to insure that immunization will be effective and that safety will not be sacrificed.

Max Eastman Is Dead

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

I can't believe that Max Eastman is dead. The last time I saw him was four years ago on the beach at Martha's Vineyard. He was then 82, but he never seemed to change over the years. He was still the sun worshipper, still the dedicated swimmer, that he had been twenty years before. He had always, so far as I know, been white-haired; it did not make him look old.

Max Eastman had been a romantic about everything, from revolution to love, and he was first of all a romantic about health. He followed the sun from the coasts and beaches of Martha's Vineyard to Barbados in the West Indies. After the Hippie-Yippie-SDS rebellion began in the middle Sixties, I had the bright idea (as I thought) of interviewing Max about the differences between his radical generation of the pre-World War I years and the LSD and pot addicts of the present. But Max was always on the go to some place I couldn't get to, so the interview never came off.

I am sure Max would have said he hated both the squalor and escapism cultivated by the modern rebel. Contrary to popular impression, his generation of Greenwich Villagers did not go in for various methods of dulling or obliterating consciousness. Part of Max's objection to the "bourgeois" world was that it condemned a person to nine-to-five indoor living chained to a desk, with no opportunity for sun, swimming and exercise. Max liked to do his work in the mornings, then adjourn to the beach or the tennis court. He didn't even like liquor, and he approved of Colonel T. E. Lawrence's rejection of alcohol as something that "spoiled the taste of water."

The Villagers of Max's day might have been free in their love affairs, but Max was always mystical about love. It had to be exalted. The modern idea that "sex is like a glass of water, you are thirsty and you drink" struck Max as a crude depravity. He brought an odd Puritanical sanction to his love affairs, even when they failed to last.

Another thing that separated the Greenwich Village of Max's day and the modern East Village "scene" relates to the idea of competence. The modern hippie wants to "cop out." The modern SDS-er in college wants his classes to be extensions of the nightly bull session. The idea of discipline bores the modern rebel. But Max Eastman believed in mastering techniques of writing, logical systems of reasoning, and such useful things as languages. He hated modern poetry because of its sloppiness, its refusal to grapple with the necessity of communicating its meaning so that the audience could comprehend. The idea of going to college just to "bull" about current events would have seemed stupid to Max: one can read the paper and bull without paying tuition to do it.

To understand what Lenin and Trotsky had to say, Max spent a long time in the Soviet Union of the early Twenties mastering the Russian language. When he had learned enough Russian to read the great revolutionists in their own tongue, he discovered that the Stalinist "excesses" which so horrified him were the logical end-result of the original Marxist-Leninist values. His long apprenticeship (John) Deweyite pragmatism combined with his experience of life in the Marxist "paradise" to tell him that Communism was not justified by its works.

A disciplined man, Max followed his reasoning to the end, writing some of the truly great analyses of Marxist failure. He would not have been surprised to discover that the modern rebel generally knows nothing of Max's own "Stalin's Russia and the Crisis in Socialism" or "Marxism: Is It Science?" It is easier to "bull" about revolution than it is to go to libraries and learn something about revolutions in the past.

The radicals of the Eastman generation had no wish to degrade life. Nor were they lazy. Instead of waiting around for federal subsidies of the arts, they started their own playhouses, putting on Eugene O'Neill's first plays at the end of an old wharf in Provincetown on Cape Cod. When Max Eastman edited the old Masses, he did it without salary, finding time for it while he did other things to make a living. I have a whole shelf of autobiographical books written by Max's radical friends of fifty years ago — such books as Susan Glaspell's "Road to the Temple," Floyd Dell's "Homecoming," and Max's own "Enjoyment of Living." The new rebels know nothing of these; it would take discipline to read them, and to build a course around the records of the rebellions of the past.

Retail prices on dairy products in Circleville stores dropped as the reduction in federal dairy price supports became effective. One local store reported price of butter had dropped 10 cents a pound.

Major changes were contemplated for the dangerous highway intersection at Leisville. This would include more right-of-way to improve visibility, an overhaul of signs already at the location, and the installation of a flashing caution light.

Ashville Community Club announced that work would begin on a park shelter house which would also house a fish fry in an attached room.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP)—While much has been learned in the past decade about regulating the economic cycle, there have been and still remain some serious errors and inconsistencies.

In the early 1960s, for example, voluntary limits were applied to wage and price increases. This was the guideline policy, and it worked well for a while. Inflation was almost negligible.

It was the government itself that helped destroy this policy. In some instances it approved of increases that exceeded production. And heavy government spending caused relentless inflationary pressure to develop.

In 1966 a credit crunch threatened to plunge the economy into an abyss. It was a manufactured crunch, the result of an administration urging the economy to greater activity while the Federal Reserve was cutting back.

The consequence of these opposite policies was to build economic demand but to deny the economy the money to meet those demands.

This wasn't the only conflict in recent years between the Fed, which controls the availability and to an extent the price of credit, and the administration, which controls fiscal activities such as spending and taxing.

As recently as last year monetary and fiscal policy again were badly out of step with each other. While the administration was taxing money out of the economy, the Fed was pouring it back in.

The well known result of this inconsistency is all about us today. That is, rather than having been cooled, the economy today is growing even hotter and may continue to do so for several months more.

An even greater consequence of this fiscal-monetary clash may lie ahead. That is, in a belated attempt to correct for past errors, a new error could be committed.

The miscalculation would occur if the Fed, feeling that its earlier permissive policy had worsened inflation, were to shut off credit so sharply that a recession occurred.

Another current policy that critics say represents an inconsistency is the 7 per cent investment tax credit. This is meant to be a spur to spending. It's aim is to encourage economic activity.

The stated aim of the Nixon administration, however, is just the opposite—to discourage spending, to slow the economy. In fact, it seeks to extend the 10 per cent surtax on incomes so as to take money out of the economy.

The administration's own wage policy also is being criticized by some as inflationary.

Under this policy, government workers are to receive a $2.8 billion or 9 per cent increase later this year.

Profane Bandits Hold Up Bank

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Three armed men wearing rubber masks escaped with an estimated $16,000 Tuesday from an East Side branch of the Society National Bank.

Three men entered the bank shortly after it opened and shouting obscenities, ordered 12 bank employees and about 12 customers to "get down on the floor."

Two of the men then leaped over a three and one half foot counter and rifled six of ten cash drawers. Administrative Assistant James Robinson said the men would have gotten more money if he had not made a normal vault deposit from the cashiers' drawers several minutes earlier.

Youth must be served: You may be getting older but the population of the world isn't. It's estimated that by 1986 some 30 per cent of all the people alive will be aged 15 years or less.

Nostalgic thought: Whatever happened to five-cent phone calls? Girls' pony tails? Boys' crew cuts? Ten-cent hamburgers? Rumble seats? Law and order?

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A NAG WHO STARTED LIFE pulling an ice wagon worked his way up in the world to the day he came in first in the Kentucky Derby. Obviously, this was one horse with a whinny way.

One of America's most glamorous stars—equally famous on Broadway and in Beverly Hills—had a chance recently to hire that rarest of treasures—a perfectly trained French maid. The maid graciously accepted the job—with one proviso: "We'll get along just fine if you'll just keep fancy actors and actresses out of the house. They drive me crazy."

The star promised to do her best. Six months have passed, and she confesses, "That maid still doesn't know I have anything to do with the theatre. I'm giving what is undoubtedly my finest performance!"

QUICKIES:

Little Rosemary's alibi for missing school for a week was not convincing, but at least it was original. She told her teacher, "I had intentional flu."

On the door of a telephone booth at the first tee of a Dallas golf course, somebody posted this warning: "Kindly do not drop money in while golfers are teeing off."

An extra-dividend of a college education: It keeps the boss' son away from the business for four more years!

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

There are few more painful conditions than tic douloureux or trigeminal neuralgia. The cause of this sudden sharp pain and spasm of the side of the face is still unknown. For a time it was suspected that infection of the teeth, the sinuses, and inflammation of the jaw joint were responsible for this exceedingly painful condition. I am afraid that our knowledge of controlling the pain is greater than our knowledge of its cause.

Sometimes the attack may come on several times a week and at other times there might be an interval of months. There seems to be no way to anticipate it.

A number of different drugs have been used to control the pain, but these are only temporary. When the condition persists and incapacitates a person, injections directly into the nerve are used with great success. Alcohol and local anesthetics have been remarkably effective in controlling the condition for long periods of time. A rather new "hot water" injection has been used with a fair amount of success. When drugs cannot control the painful spasms, surgery has been used. Many types of operations have been devised. The choice, of course, depends on the particular surgeon and his experience.

At the turn of the century, a condition known as empyema of the chest cavity was a frequent complication of respiratory and lung infections. This condition is an accumulation of fluid between the layers of the pleura which cover the lung and line the chest wall. The use of the antibiotics has reduced the frequency of this severe disease and has almost completely eradicated the need for the extensive surgery that was formerly done to cure it.

Empyema must not be confused with emphysema, another complication of chronic lung conditions. This latter is a most serious aftermath of cigarette smoking, air pollution, and long-standing exposure to factory fumes. Unfortunately, the antibiotics have not been able to contribute as much to the control of emphysema as they have to empyema.

Occasionally, people who have allergic children avoid vaccinating them because of their fear of possible dangers. One such case recently came to my attention when the polio vaccine

Max Eastman Is Dead

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

I can't believe that Max Eastman is dead. The last time I saw him was four years ago on the beach at Martha's Vineyard. He was then 82, but he never seemed to change over the years. He was still the sun worshipper, still the dedicated swimmer, that he had been twenty years before. He had always, so far as I know, been white-haired; it did not make him look old.

Max Eastman had been a romantic about everything, from revolution to love, and he was first of all a romantic about health. He followed the sun from the coasts and beaches of Martha's Vineyard to Barbados in the West Indies. After the Hippie-Yippie-SDS rebellion began in the middle Sixties, I had the bright idea (as I thought) of interviewing Max about the differences between his radical generation of the pre-World War I years and the LSD and pot addicts of the present. But Max was always on the go to some place I couldn't get to, so the interview never came off.

I am sure Max would have said he hated both the squalor and escapism cultivated by the modern rebel. Contrary to popular impression, his generation of Greenwich Villagers did not go in for various methods of dulling or obliterating consciousness. Part of Max's objection to the "bourgeois" world was that it condemned a person to nine-to-five indoor living chained to a desk, with no opportunity for sun, swimming and exercise. Max liked to do his work in the mornings, then adjourn to the beach or the tennis court. He didn't even like liquor, and he approved of Colonel T. E. Lawrence's rejection of alcohol as something that "spoiled the taste of water."

The Villagers of Max's day might have been free in their love affairs, but Max was always mystical about love. It had to be exalted. The modern idea that "sex is like a glass of water, you are thirsty and you drink" struck Max as a crude depravity. He brought an odd Puritanical sanction to his love affairs, even when they failed to last.

Another thing that separated the Greenwich Village of Max's day and the modern East Village "scene" relates to the idea of competence. The modern hippie wants to "cop out." The modern SDS-er in college wants his classes to be extensions of the nightly bull session. The idea of discipline bores the modern rebel. But Max Eastman believed in mastering techniques of writing, logical systems of reasoning, and such useful things as languages. He hated modern poetry because of its sloppiness, its refusal to grapple with the necessity of communicating its meaning so that the audience could comprehend. The idea of going to college just to "bull" about current events would have seemed stupid to Max: one can read the paper and bull without paying tuition to do it.

To understand what Lenin and Trotsky had to say, Max spent a long time in the Soviet Union of the early Twenties mastering the Russian language. When he had learned enough Russian to read the great revolutionists in their own tongue, he discovered that the Stalinist "excesses" which so horrified him were the logical end-result of the original Marxist-Leninist values. His long apprenticeship to (John) Deweyite pragmatism combined with his experience of life in the Marxist "paradise" to tell him that Communism was not justified by its works.

A disciplined man, Max followed his reasoning to the end, writing some of the truly great analyses of Marxist failure. He would not have been surprised to discover that the modern rebel generally knows nothing of Max's own "Stalin's Russia and the Crisis in Socialism" or "Marxism: Is It Science?" It is easier to "bull" about revolution than it is to go to libraries and learn something about revolutions in the past.

The radicals of the Eastman generation had no wish to degrade life. Nor were they lazy. Instead of waiting around for federal subsidies of the arts, they started their own playhouses, putting on Eugene O'Neill's first plays at the end of an old wharf in Provincetown on Cape Cod. When Max Eastman edited the old Masses, he did it without salary, finding time for it while he did other things to make a living. I have a whole shelf of autobiographical books written by Max's radical friends of fifty years ago—such books as Susan Glaspell's "Road to the Temple," Floyd Dell's "Homecoming," and Max's own "Enjoyment of Living." The new rebels know nothing of these; it would take discipline to read them, and to build a course around the records of the rebellions of the past.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP)—While much has been learned in the past decade about regulating the economic cycle, there have been and still remain some serious errors and inconsistencies.

In the early 1960s, for example, voluntary limits were applied to wage and price increases. This was the guidepost policy, and it worked well for a while. Inflation was almost negligible.

It was the government itself that helped destroy this policy. In some instances it approved of increases that exceeded production. And heavy government spending caused relentless inflationary pressure to develop.

In 1966 a credit crunch threatened to plunge the economy into an abyss. It was a manufactured crunch, the result of an administration urging the economy to greater activity while the Federal Reserve was cutting back.

The consequence of these opposite policies was to build economic demand but to deny the economy the money to meet those demands.

This wasn't the only conflict in recent years between the Fed, which controls the availability and to an extent the price of credit, and the administration, which controls fiscal activities such as spending and taxing.

As recently as last year monetary and fiscal policy again were badly out of step with each other. While the administration was taxing money out of the economy, the Fed was pouring it back in.

The well known result of this inconsistency is all about us today. That is, rather than having been cooled, the economy today is growing even hotter and may continue to do so for several months more.

An even greater consequence of this fiscal-monetary clash may lie ahead. That is, in a belated attempt to correct for past errors, a new error could be committed.

The miscalculation would occur if the Fed, feeling that its earlier permissive policy had worsened inflation, were to shut off credit so sharply that a recession occurred.

Another current policy that critics say represents an inconsistency is the 7 per cent investment tax credit. This is meant to be a spur to spending. It's aim is to encourage economic activity.

The stated aim of the Nixon administration, however, is just the opposite—to discourage spending, to slow the economy. In fact, it seeks to extend the 10 per cent surtax on incomes so as to take money out of the economy.

The administration's own wage policy also is being criticized by some as inflationary. Under this policy, government workers are to receive a $2.8 billion or 9 per cent increase later this year.

Profane Bandits Hold Up Bank

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Three armed men wearing rubber masks escaped with an estimated $16,000 Tuesday from an East Side branch of the Society National Bank.

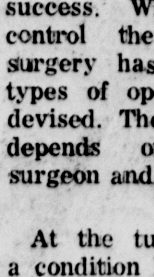

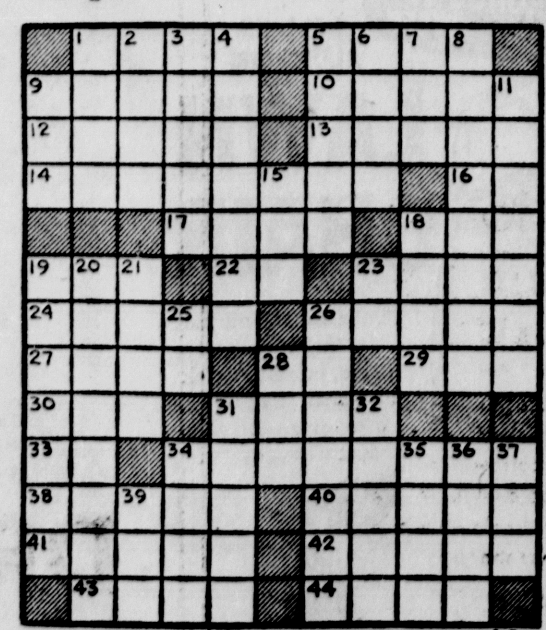

Three men entered the bank shortly after it opened and shouting obscenities, ordered 12 bank employees and about 12 customers to "get down on the floor."

Two of the men then leaped over a three and one half foot counter and rifled six of ten cash drawers. Administrative Assistant James Robinson said the men would have gotten more money if he had not made a normal vault deposit from the cashiers' drawers several minutes earlier.

Navy Plans New Missile

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary John H. Chafee disclosed Tuesday the Navy is considering a new long-range submarine missile system to meet the increasing threat from the Soviet Union in the 170s.

Chafee told the Senate Armed Services Committee of plans for the new, multi billion dollar system, even as work is beginning to convert the first of 31 ballistic missile submarines from the Polaris to the new multi-warhead Poseidon.

His testimony was given to a closed committee session but was made public.

Chafee said "It is quite clear that the Soviet Navy presents a serious and growing threat to our continued supremacy on the seas," including a nuclear threat that "has grown more rapidly than expected, both in quality and in number."

He cited the possibility of an extensive Soviet antisubmarine warfare effort against the U.S. fleet of 41 Polaris and Poseidon submarines and said "In preparation for such Soviet efforts, we are examining a longer-range submarine launched missile system."

Evidence Supports Resurrection

Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of five Easter articles about the mystery of the resurrection of Jesus. It deals with the evidence for the historical occurrence of that strange and hope-lifting event.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

A brilliant Jewish scholar, who initially had led a campaign of raids, persecution and arrests to try to stamp out claims that Jesus was raised from the dead, later summarized the first-hand testimony he had accumulated that it actually had happened.

"He appeared to Cephas (Peter), then to the 12," Paul wrote to believers at Corinth. "Then He appeared to more than 500 brethren at one time, most of whom are still alive... Then He appeared to James, then to all of the apostles. Last of all, as to one untimely born, He appeared also to me."

The letter was written in 55 A.D., no more than 25 years after the crucifixion, and before the gospel accounts were compiled. The scrupulous Paul points out that he had gathered the information directly.

"For I delivered to you as of first importance what I also received," he noted, in regard to the eyewitness affirmations of Jesus's resurrection.

Paul, a highly educated and determined foe of the new faith until convinced of it by his own belated vision of the risen Christ about 33 A.D., had afterward spent two weeks in private conversations with the apostle Peter and Jesus's brother, James.

This conference in Jerusalem took place in 36 A.D., within six years of the crucifixion, so Paul had immediate access to the sources in setting down his early resume of the resurrection appearances.

"If Christ has not been raised, your faith is futile," he wrote. "But in fact Christ has been raised from the dead, the first fruits of those who have fallen asleep."

However, it is not the declarations and documented descriptions that provide the most persuasive evidence of the resurrection, but rather the actions following it which would have been incredible if it hadn't been true.

After the crucifixion, the apostles were broken, disillusioned men. They had fled the scene of His arrest, one even denying acquaintance with Him. "I know Him not," Peter insisted. He and the others had gone into hiding, fearful, despairing, convinced that the cause had collapsed in the most debasing way.

They had expected Jesus to mount a throne, but instead He died on a degrading criminal's cross. To them, the whole venture had failed. They were beaten, scared, immobilized. But then something happened, and suddenly they were fearless, unstoppable advocates of a triumphant Jesus, defying official threats, indictments and persecution.

What caused this abrupt, startling change, this complete turnaround, transforming them all at once from cowering, muted fugitives into dauntless evangelists who could not be intimidated or silenced?

"Men of Israel," Peter proclaimed in a crowded public square, Jesus "was crucified and killed by the hands of lawless men. But God raised Him up, having loosed the pangs of death... Of that we all are witnesses."

Something truly overpowering clearly had affected those apostles to bring about such a total, sudden reversal in their outlook and conduct.

"They are filled with new wine," somebody shouted. It must have been that, figuratively, although not of the liquid kind, as Peter pointed out, since it was only 9 a.m., and no wine was consumed by that hour. But in spirit, obviously, these men had been overwhelmingly renewed.

The fact is simply unaccountable apart from the impact of the resurrection. Psychologically, this is the strongest sort of evidence for its actual occurrence.

Even those who consider it merely impressionistic symbolism do not deny that some intensely moving experience had electrified that dispirited apostolic band. Whatever it was, they were catapulted from skulking inertia to heroic stature.

They don't explain the resurrection, scholars have observed, but the resurrection does explain them.

However, in arguments against its really happening, various alternative explanations are offered, chiefly that the apostles had worked themselves up to a point of psychic anticipation so that they had hallucinations.

But the theory doesn't square with their previous attitudes. They were hardheaded, practical men, fishermen, farmers, tax collectors, full of ordinary skepticism. They had plainly given up in defeat, and run out on the whole business.

Rather than having whipped up an anticipatory mood that could lead to visions, they were dumfounded with surprise when the resurrection took place and flatly discounted it even after finding the tomb empty. They still couldn't believe it even when Jesus first appeared to them.

"Why are you troubled, and who do questions rise in your hearts?" he said. "See My hands and My feet, that it is I myself."

They had to be convinced, and Jesus had to go to great lengths to do it, once even eating with them to show them He wasn't just a ghost. One hard-line doubter insisted it was a case of mistaken identity until he saw the wounds in Jesus's body. "My Lord and my God!" Thomas exclaimed.

Also, it is unlikely that the crowd of 500 which Paul cites as witnesses could have had a purely subjective "vision" all at once.

The theory also gives way before the fact that the Jerusalem authorities, striving vehemently to suppress the resurrection reports, could have quickly demolished them by producing Jesus's corpse, but they didn't.

The only conceivable explanation is that they couldn't — it was no longer in the tomb.

An ancient, discrediting suggestion is that perhaps Jesus did not really die, but only swooned into a death-like coma on the cross, then revived in the cool tomb, and emerged to rejoin his apostles.

A possibility, but it's highly implausible, considering the measures of execution taken against him, including the final spear thrust. It's also unlikely that a disabled, weakened nearly dead man could have got out of the tight body wrappings, rolled away the massive outside stone barrier from inside the tomb, eluded the guards posted there, and made his way unaided back to Jerusalem.

But mainly, it's inconceivable, considering the character of Jesus, that He would have set about misleading the apostles into believing a phony resurrection, even had it been possible in His debilitated state, and then to have fired them with the enthusiasm to go out and risk their lives in behalf of a fraud.

Sometimes, objections are raised that the four gospel accounts of the resurrection offer differing, even conflicting details about that breathtaking interlude.

For instance, the books don't always agree on the names and number of women who went to the tomb, or on what precisely happened there — yet all say it was empty. Mark and Matthew locate the appearances to the disciples in Galilee. Luke says it was in Jerusalem, while John cites both places.

Considering the excitement of the circumstances, however, the discrepancies serve more to authenticate the reports than to distract from them, since individual observers inevitably absorb an event from different perspectives.

In fact, if the reports completely harmonized, it would suggest they had been doctored.

As it is, they have a ring of genuine, independent reportage the secondary variations merely reflecting individuality of memory, information and vantage point.

Despite the many efforts over the centuries to undermine the case for the resurrection, the evidence for its reality stands unshaken, both psychologically and from the written accounts.

It is not the lack of evidence that hampers, belief in the resurrection, however, but the nature of the event itself.

Protestant theologian George A. Buttrick once observed that even if a photograph of the risen Jesus were available, or a recording of his voice, many people would call it a fake, simply because it challenged their preconceptions.

But something more than first-century evidence figures in the faith in Jesus's resurrection — the experience of Christians ever since of His continuing presence among them.

A leading physicist, William G. Pollard, long in charge of the national nuclear research institute at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and now also an Episcopal clergyman, says "the factual and intellectual basis of Christianity is just as broad and advent" as that of physics, but that both are based on faith drawn from experience.

In physics, he says, you not only have to subject yourself to its disciplines of learning facts and techniques, but also to acquiring its mutual spirit until gradually "you somehow know in your bones the truths of the structure of physics."

"You would also know it is tentative truth," he says. "The only people in the world that can demonstrate the truths of physics." And "it is the same way" in Christianity.

It is, too, he says, you not only have to learn its disciplines and techniques, but also to acquire its community spirit, until finally you "come to know to your own satisfaction the truth of it just as much as you can come to know the truths of physics."

The "really essential thing" about physics "can't be taught at all" and that is the "faith on which the enterprise of physics is built," he says. "This you have to watch by contagion from those who have it because they don't know how they got it. And it is just like this in Christianity, too."

It also is that way, in regard to the resurrection. Despite the evidence, it would long ago have faded into dusty forgetfulness if it weren't confirmed

Social Security Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column of questions and answers on social security matters is provided by the local Social Security Office and is published here as a public service. The column answers questions most frequently asked.

Q — It is my understanding that the social security tax rate went up on Jan. 1. If true, why was this necessary?

A — The 1967 Amendments to the Social Security Act provided for a substantial increase in total cash benefits, new benefits for disabled workers, liberalized the retirement test allowing greater earnings and continued entitlement benefits, and also numerous other liberal provisions. To meet this additional expense, the Congress established a revised tax schedule designed to meet these costs over a period of years. The first increase in this schedule was effective on January 1, 1969.

Q — I have been an ordained minister since 1955 and have never filed any statement that I wanted my earnings as a minister to be covered by social security. Is it too late for me to become covered under social security?

A — Beginning with taxable years ending after 1967 (generally, years beginning Jan. 1, 1968) your earnings as a self-employed minister are compulsorily covered by social security. However, your earnings can be exempt from social security coverage if you are opposed to this coverage for primarily in the continuing experience of it in the lives of generations since.

reasons of religious principles or conscience.

To gain this exemption, you must file a request to be excluded from this taxation with Internal Revenue Service by April 15, 1970. (Persons entering the ministry after 1968 have a later deadline for applying for this exclusion. For details, they should contact their local Social Security or Internal Revenue Service Office.)

Q — I received social security benefits until I was 18 from my deceased father's account. I'll be discharged from the Army next month and plan to attend college beginning next term. Can I receive social security benefits while I'm going to college?

A. You may receive social security benefits if you are attending school on a full-time basis and are under 22 years of age and unmarried.

Q — How early can an individual enroll for Medicare

A — An application may be effective as early as three months before the individual is age 65. The first enrollment period extends from the third month prior to the 65th birthday until the last day of the third month after the month the individual reaches age 65.

Man 'Loses' Apartment

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A former Wisconsin resident couldn't move into his new Phoenix apartment over the weekend because he lost it.

Charles Rowland, 48, sold his photo finishing business in Appleton, Wisc., flew to Arizona and checked into a Phoenix hotel.

The same day, Rowland found an apartment he liked and paid one month's advance rent. But he drove away without noting the address.

After 14 hours driving around the city to find the apartment building on the day he was supposed to move, Rowland notified a local paper of his plight. The apartment manager read the article and called Rowland.

The apartment is two blocks from Rowland's hotel.

Navy Plans New Missile

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary John H. Chafee disclosed Tuesday the Navy is considering a new long-range submarine missile system to meet the increasing threat from the Soviet Union in the 170s.

Chafee told the Senate Armed Services Committee of plans for the new, multi billion dollar system, even as work is beginning to convert the first of 31 ballistic missile submarines from the Polaris to the new multi-warhead Poseidon.

His testimony was given to a closed committee session but was made public.

Chafee said "It is quite clear that the Soviet Navy presents a serious and growing threat to our continued supremacy on the seas," including a nuclear threat that "has grown more rapidly than expected, both in quality and in number."

He cited the possibility of an extensive Soviet antisubmarine warfare effort against the U.S. fleet of 41 Polaris and Poseidon submarines and said "In preparation for such Soviet efforts, we are examining a longer-range submarine launched missile system."

Evidence Supports Resurrection

Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of five Easter articles about the mystery of the resurrection of Jesus. It deals with the evidence for the historical occurrence of that strange and hope-lifting event.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

A brilliant Jewish scholar, who initially had led a campaign of raids, persecution and arrests to try to stamp out claims that Jesus was raised from the dead, later summarized the first-hand testimony he had accumulated that it actually had happened.

"He appeared to Cephas (Peter), then to the 12," Paul wrote to believers at Corinth. "Then He appeared to more than 500 brethren at one time, most of whom are still alive... Then He appeared to James, then to all of the apostles. Last of all, as to one untimely born, He appeared also to me."

The letter was written in 55 A.D., no more than 25 years after the crucifixion, and before the gospel accounts were compiled. The scrupulous Paul points out that he had gathered the information directly.

"For I delivered to you as of first importance what I also received," he noted, in regard to the eyewitness affirmations of Jesus's resurrection.

Paul, a highly educated and determined foe of the new faith until convinced of it by his own belated vision of the risen Christ about 33 A.D., had afterward spent two weeks in private conversations with the apostle Peter and Jesus's brother, James.

This conference in Jerusalem took place in 36 A.D., within six years of the crucifixion, so Paul had immediate access to the sources in setting down his early resume of the resurrection appearances.

"If Christ has not been raised, your faith is futile," he wrote. "But in fact Christ has been raised from the dead, the first fruits of those who have fallen asleep."

However, it is not the declarations and documented descriptions that provide the most persuasive evidence of the resurrection, but rather the actions following it which would have been incredible if it hadn't been true.

After the crucifixion, the apostles were broken, disillusioned men. They had fled the scene of His arrest, one even denying acquaintance with Him. "I know Him not," Peter insisted. He and the others had gone into hiding, fearful, despairing, convinced that the cause had collapsed in the most debasing way.

They had expected Jesus to mount a throne, but instead He died on a degrading criminal's cross. To them, the whole venture had failed. They were beaten, scared, immobilized. But then something happened, and suddenly they were fearless, unstoppable advocates of a triumphant Jesus, defying official threats, indictments and persecution.

What caused this abrupt, startling change, this complete turnaround, transforming them all at once from cowering, muted fugitives into dauntless evangelists who could not be intimidated or silenced?

"Men of Israel," Peter proclaimed in a crowded public square, Jesus "was crucified and killed by the hands of lawless men. But God raised Him up, having loosed the pangs of death... Of that we all are witnesses."

Something truly overpowering clearly had affected those apostles to bring about such a total, sudden reversal in their outlook and conduct.

"They are filled with new wine," somebody shouted. It must have been that, figuratively, although not of the liquid kind, as Peter pointed out, since it was only 9 a.m., and no wine was consumed by that hour. But in spirit, obviously, these men had been overwhelmingly renewed.

The fact is simply unaccountable apart from the impact of the resurrection. Psychologically, this is the strongest sort of evidence for its actual occurrence.

Even those who consider it merely impressionistic symbolism do not deny that some intensely moving experience had electrified that dissipated apostolic band. Whatever it was, they were catapulted from skulking inertia to heroic stature.

They don't explain the resurrection, scholars have observed, but the resurrection does explain them.

However, in arguments against its really happening, various alternative explanations are offered, chiefly that the apostles had worked themselves up to a point of psychic anticipation so that they had hallucinations.

But the theory doesn't square with their previous attitudes. They were hardheaded, practical men, fishermen, farmers, tax collectors, full of ordinary skepticism. They had plainly given up in defeat, and run out on the whole business.

Rather than having whipped up an anticipatory mood that could lead to visions, they were dumfounded with surprise when the resurrection took place and flatly discounted it even after finding the tomb empty. They still couldn't believe it even when Jesus first appeared to them.

"Why are you troubled, and who do questions rise in your hearts?" he said. "See My hands and My feet, that it is I myself."

They had to be convinced, and Jesus had to go to great lengths to do it, once even eating with them to show them He wasn't just a ghost. One hard-line doubter insisted it was a case of mistaken identity until he saw the wounds in Jesus's body. "My Lord and my God!" Thomas exclaimed.

Also, it is unlikely that the crowd of 500 which Paul cites as witnesses could have had a purely subjective "vision" all at once.

The theory also gives way before the fact that the Jerusalem authorities, striving vehemently to suppress the resurrection reports, could have quickly demolished them by producing Jesus's corpse, but they didn't.

The only conceivable explanation is that they couldn't — it was no longer in the tomb. An ancient, discrediting suggestion is that perhaps Jesus did not really die, but only swooned into a death-like coma on the cross, then revived in the cool tomb, and emerged to rejoin his apostles.

A possibility, but it's highly implausible, considering the measures of execution taken against him, including the final spear thrust. It's also unlikely that a disabled, weakened nearly dead man could have got out of the tight body wrappings, rolled away the massive outside stone barrier from inside the tomb, eluded the guards posted there, and made his way unaided back to Jerusalem.

But mainly, it's inconceivable, considering the character of Jesus, that He would have set about misleading the apostles into believing a phony resurrection, even had it been possible in His debilitated state, and then to have fired them with the enthusiasm to go out and risk their lives in behalf of a fraud.

Sometimes, objections are raised that the four gospel accounts of the resurrection offer differing, even conflicting details about that breathtaking interlude.

For instance, the books don't always agree on the names and number of women who went to the tomb, or on what precisely happened there — yet all say it was empty. Mark and Matthew locate the appearances to the disciples in Galilee. Luke says it was in Jerusalem, while John cites both places.

Considering the excitement of the circumstances, however, the discrepancies serve more to authenticate the reports than to distract from them, since individual observers inevitably absorb an event from different perspectives.

In fact, if the reports completely harmonized, it would suggest they had been doctored.

As it is, they have a ring of genuine, independent reportage the secondary variations merely reflecting individuality of memory, information and vantage point.

Despite the many efforts over the centuries to undermine the case for the resurrection, the evidence for its reality stands unshaken, both psychologically and from the written accounts.

It is not the lack of evidence that hampers, belief in the resurrection, however, but the nature of the event itself.

Protestant theologian George A. Buttrick once observed that even if a photograph of the risen Jesus were available, or a recording of his voice, many people would call it a fake, simply because it challenged their preconceptions.

But something more than first-century evidence figures in the faith in Jesus's resurrection — the experience of Christians ever since of His continuing presence among them.

A leading physicist, William G. Pollard, long in charge of the national nuclear research institute at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and now also an Episcopal clergyman, says "the factual and intellectual basis of Christianity is just as broad and advent" as that of physics, but that both are based on faith drawn from experience.

In physics, he says, you not only have to subject yourself to its disciplines of learning facts and techniques, but also to acquiring its mutual spirit until gradually "you somehow know in your bones the truths of the structure of physics."

"You would also know it is tentative truth," he says. "The only people in the world that can demonstrate the truths of physics." And "it is the same way" in Christianity.

It is, too, he says, you not only have to learn its disciplines and techniques, but also to acquire its community spirit, until finally you "come to know to your own satisfaction the truth of it just as much as you can come to know the truths of physics."

The "really essential thing" about physics "can't be taught at all" and that is the "faith on which the enterprise of physics is built," he says. "This you have to watch by contagion from those who have it because they don't know how they got it. And it is just like this in Christianity, too."

It also is that way, in regard to the resurrection. Despite the evidence, it would long ago have faded into dusty forgetfulness if it weren't confirmed

Social Security Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column of questions and answers on social security matters is provided by the local Social Security Office and is published here as a public service. The column answers questions most frequently asked.

Q — It is my understanding that the social security tax rate went up on Jan. 1. If true, why was this necessary?

A — The 1967 Amendments to the Social Security Act provided for a substantial increase in total cash benefits, new benefits for disabled workers, liberalized the retirement test allowing greater earnings and continued entitlement benefits, and also numerous other liberal provisions. To meet this additional expense, the Congress established a revised tax schedule designed to meet these costs over a period of years. The first increase in this schedule was effective on January 1, 1969.

Q — I have been an ordained minister since 1955 and have never filed any statement that I wanted my earnings as a minister to be covered by social security. Is it too late for me to become covered under social security?

A — Beginning with taxable years ending after 1967 (generally, years beginning Jan. 1, 1968) your earnings as a self-employed minister are compulsorily covered by social security. However, your earnings can be exempt from social security coverage if you are opposed to this coverage for primarily in the continuing experience of it in the lives of generations since.

reasons of religious principles or conscience.

To gain this exemption, you must file a request to be excluded from this taxation with Internal Revenue Service by April 15, 1970. (Persons entering the ministry after 1968 have a later deadline for applying for this exclusion. For details, they should contact their local Social Security or Internal Revenue Service Office.)

Q — I received social security benefits until I was 18 from my deceased father's account. I'll be discharged from the Army next month and plan to attend college beginning next term. Can I receive social security benefits while I'm going to college?

A — You may receive social security benefits if you are attending school on a full-time basis and are under 22 years of age and unmarried.

Q — How early can an individual enroll for Medicare?

A — An application may be effective as early as three months before the individual is age 65. The first enrollment period extends from the third month prior to the 65th birthday until the last day of the third month after the month the individual reaches age 65.

Maid of honor was Miss Elizabeth TeSelle, Fox Point, Wis. She wore a pastel blue double breasted coat dress and carried a nosegay of yellow daisies.

Warren Zisserson of Downers Grove, Ill., performed the duties of best man. Seating the guests were Joseph Ruet and Gene Ruet, brothers of the groom.

Mrs. Wolf was attired in a pale blue jacket dress and Mrs. Ruet selected a peach sheath dress for the wedding.

A reception at the Sakre and Saddle immediately followed the wedding. A rose decorated wedding cake centered the bride's table which was adorned with an arrangement of yellow and white daisies, and chrysanthemums. Hostesses were Miss Judi Wolf, sister of the bride, Miss Barbara Barger of Wheaton, Ill., and Miss Sue Garland of Gloucester, Mass.

Miss Christy Lynn Wolf Bride Of Michael L. Ruet

Miss Christy Lynn Wolf and Michael Lawrence Ruet exchanged nuptial vows 1 p.m. March 29 in the Fisher Memorial Chapel, Rockford College, Rockford, Ill. Dr. Roger W. Johnson, college chaplain, performed the double ring ceremony before the circular altar adorned with white daisies and chrysanthemums. This was the first student wedding in the new chapel.

Richard Letterst, organist, presented Toccata and Fugue in D Minor by Johann Sebastian Bach and Prelude Fugue and Variation by Cesar Franck. The bride is the daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Gayle C. Wolf, Columbus, who are moving to Hamilton Air Force Base in California following the wedding. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Ruet of Chicago, Ill.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected for her wedding an ivory Edwardian skimmer designed gown with scoop neckline and matching covered buttons at the bodice and wide cuffs. A wide band of Guipure lace appliqued with Alencon lace finished with blossoms at the crown formed her headpiece. She carried a nosegay of white daisies and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Miss Elizabeth TeSelle, Fox Point, Wis. She wore a pastel blue double breasted coat dress and carried a nosegay of yellow daisies.

Warren Zisserson of Downers Grove, Ill., performed the duties of best man. Seating the guests were Joseph Ruet and Gene Ruet, brothers of the groom.

Mrs. Wolf was attired in a pale blue jacket dress and Mrs. Ruet selected a peach sheath dress for the wedding.

A reception at the Sabre and Saddle immediately followed the wedding. A rose decorated wedding cake centered the bride's table which was adorned with an arrangement of yellow and white daisies, and chrysanthemums.

Hostesses were Miss Judi Wolf, sister of the bride, Miss Barbara Barger of Wheaton, Ill., and Miss Sue Garland of Gloucester, Mass. The couple will reside at 215 Seventh St., Rockford, Ill. 61104.

The new Mrs. Ruet is a graduate of Warner Robins High School in Georgia. She attended Rockford College in Illinois and is presently enrolled at Electronic Computer Programming Institute, Rockford, Ill.

Mr. Ruet is a graduate of St. Benedict High School, Chicago, Ill. He attended Rockford College and is a student at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, Ill., and is working as a technician at the Swedish American Hospital in Rockford.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. E. E. Wolf, grandmother of the bride, from Circleville; many from the Chicago area; Judi Wolf, sister of the bride, and Miss Nancy Yates, formerly of Circleville and now living in Rockford.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Forget 'Affair,' But Be Good Wife

DEAR ABBY: I have been married only two years and have already violated our marriage beyond forgiveness.

My husband had to be away for six months, and during his absence I lived alone in our apartment. I was lonely, but everything went along fine until about a month before his return. At this time I met a man, and his attentions led me to the most regrettable experience of my life.

I never thought it could happen to me, but I was unfaithful to my husband.

Abby, my husband is the most wonderful man in the world, and I love him so very much. The guilt from this "affair" is driving me out of my mind. I am trying to be the most perfect wife possible to make it up to him, but my conscience is torturing me. In a way I would like to tell my husband, but I know it would just kill him and he may never trust me again. Please tell me what to do. And don't condemn me for my actions. I've already condemned myself enough.

GUILTY AND ASHAMED
DEAR GUILTY: Telling your husband would be cruel and unwise. If you feel the need to "confess" further, tell your clergyman. (Frankly, you've told me and I'm telling about 55 million people, which is more than enough.) Quit punishing yourself, and forget the unfortunate incident, continue to be a good wife, and if your husband ever has to leave town on an extended trip, go with him or ask a friend (a girl) to stay with you to relieve your loneliness.

DEAR ABBY: What can you get for appearing in a see-thru blouse in Fargo, N.D.?

JUST CURIOUS
DEAR JUST: Pneumonia, for sure. Arrested, probably.

DEAR ABBY: I just read where a well-known marriage counselor and psychologist says, "Couples who fight together stay together, and a fight a day keeps the doctor away." I would like to know how you feel about this?

BIRMINGHAM
DEAR BIRMINGHAM: That well-known marriage counselor and psychologist can go to his church and I'll go to mine. It doesn't take any brains to pick a fight. Civilized people learn to control their tempers and keep their mouths shut. And it's my view that a fight a day keeps a lot of doctors busy.

DEAR ABBY: A man in saying he was upset because the doctor had told him he could never father children, and now his wife was pregnant. He says the baby can't be his. Well, listen to this:

Twenty years ago I married, and we had four children, then my husband got very sick and when he recovered the doctor told him he couldn't father any more children. He went to FOUR other doctors and they all told him the same thing. That makes FIVE doctors, right? We didn't care because we had a nice family. Then all of a sudden I found myself pregnant!

Soviets Step Up Anti-Czech Drive In The Press

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government kept up its new press campaign against Czechoslovakia Tuesday and meanwhile sent its defense minister on another surprise visit to the occupied country.

The youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda charged that the Soviet-Czechoslovak hockey games last week were used to whip up anti-Soviet feeling and condemned this as "base and vile."

The newspaper charged that the celebration in Prague after Czechoslovakia defeated Russia in the second game of the World Hockey Championships "was a nationalistic demonstration, organized in advance, that had a far-reaching political purpose."

After the Czechoslovak victories, excited demonstrators attacked Russian occupation facilities across Czechoslovakia, smashing barracks windows and setting vehicles afire. Crowds in Prague attacked the offices of the Soviet airline Aeroflot. Fifty-one Czechoslovak policemen were reported injured trying to halt the outbreaks.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, keynoter at the last Democratic convention, says the United States should set up diplomatic relations with Red China and agree to its admission to the United Nations.

Mainland China's population constitutes 25 per cent of humanity, Inouye said in a speech to a state AFL-CIO convention, "and cannot be disregarded any longer."

Optimism Over Vietnam Fades

By PETER ARNETT
Associated Press Writer

TAY NINH, Vietnam (AP) — Optimism about the war reflected at U.S. headquarters in Saigon earlier this year has been replaced by constraint. American pacification officials no longer mention the confident forecasts, made in February, that 90 per cent of South Vietnam's population would be under government control and protection by year's end.

As has happened often in the past, hopes have proved premature that the enemy forces were so weakened and disarrayed that they had lost the drive for any real fight.

Many realities of the war seem as valid now as they did in earlier years.

One is that there is no easy way to win.
The B52 bombers that send high explosives crashing into the jungles have scored many successes, allied officers say, but they have not deterred a determined enemy from frequently bursting upon allied bases.

Sophisticated radar and electronic tracking devices on aircraft and vehicles were seen as another technique of reducing the troops workload. But none of this apparatus located two battalion-sized enemy ambushes laid in daylight last week along busy highways in this area 50 miles northwest of Saigon.

The Vietnamese army appears nowhere near taking over the workload from the Americans. In three sectors surveyed last week, American troops were earmarked to take over areas currently defended by the Vietnamese army, should the pressure increase to a dangerous level.

Hopes that people in outlying villages recently armed by the Saigon government would resist the Viet Cong have not fully materialized. Enemy forces have walked through allegedly pacified villages west and south of Saigon without a shot being fired by the defenders.

Outer-ring defenses around many cities have not functioned. A grade "A" hamlet outside Bac Lieu city in the Mekong Delta was found to be harboring Viet Cong forces at night. They regularly received intelligence from villagers visiting the nearby city market.

Another reality is that allied troops often cannot grasp the initiative from the enemy. Usually the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese are found only when they want to be found. As an example, 12 U.S. battalions recently thrashed around the Michelin rubber plantation unsuccessfully seeking a North Vietnamese regiment.

A prisoner captured south of Saigon this week said he and his 30-man platoon slept each night for months in nipa palms only 100 yards from a firebase manned by the U.S. 199th Light Infantry Brigade.

Deficiency in knowledge of the local scene is compensated by the vast firepower U.S. forces can summon at any given moment from artillery and airpower. In the final analysis, this immense firepower generally saves the day. But firepower can be used successfully only against a visible enemy. Often when the enemy is invisible to the Americans he is all too real to the people in the middle of the war, the peasantry.

Suit Is Filed To Equalize Pupil Outlays

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A suit intended to equalize the money spent per pupil in Ohio's schools was filed Tuesday in Common Pleas Court.

Cleveland School Board President Daniel O. Corrigan filed the suit arguing that the state sales tax - supported school foundation program and a state law permitting school districts to levy property taxes for schools within their own boundaries violate equal protection clauses of the Ohio and federal constitutions.

He said that some rural school districts were only spending about $220 per pupil, and school districts in industrial areas or wealthy suburbs were spending as much as $1,050 per pupil.

His suit asked for a temporary injunction to prevent distribution of state foundation funds to six school districts. He also sought a permanent injunction giving the state legislature 90 days to adjust state funds and local property tax assessments more evenly among the districts.

Named as defendants were State Treasurer John D. Herbert and the Cleveland area school boards of Bratenahl, Cuyahoga Heights, Orange Rocky River, and Shaker Heights, as well as the school board of Lockland, a Cincinnati suburb.

Pat Nugent Gets Medal

SAIGON (AP) — One of ex-President Lyndon B. Johnson's sons-in-law left Vietnam for home today with a medal.

Airman I. C. Patrick J. Nugent, married to Johnson's daughter Luci, completed his year of Vietnam duty and took a plane for Bergstrom Air Force Base in Texas. He will be discharged there.

He was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross while loadmaster of a C123 loaded with troops on Jan. 2.

An Air Force spokesman said the twin-engine transport had 55 soldiers of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division aboard when it came under mortar attack. But Nugent and the other crew members accomplished their mission "without battle damage or crew injury," the citation said.

Johnson's other son-in-law, Marine Maj. Charles Robb, is scheduled to leave Vietnam later this month. Robb, served about six months as a company commander and now has a staff job at the headquarters of the 1st Marine Division.

Rhodes Talks On Education

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes said Tuesday that massive housing and job education programs are the only alternative to calling out the National Guard to quell disturbances in Ohio cities.

Speaking at a Dayton Civic club luncheon, Rhodes said "we could use 250,000 new middle and low income houses in Ohio alone, and we think private industry through a tax incentive ought to help provide them."

"There are 150,000 technical jobs going begging in Ohio," Rhodes said, "and 150,000 young people walking the streets."

The governor also said Ohio is planning a second new penal institution to augment the new Ohio Penitentiary being built near Lucasville.

"This will give us a chance to renovate and remodel our present institutions," Rhodes said. He refused to disclose the site of the second facility or comment on its planned size or purpose.

Hear Plan On State Retirement

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio House Committee on State Government heard the first of a series of state pension fund proposals Monday night.

Rep. Lloyd George Kerns R-16 Raymond, said the group of bills eventually will be handed to a subcommittee to work out a logical sequence of measures.

Rep. Myrl Shoemaker D-21 Bourneville, who sponsored a bill to permit state retirees to hold public office and continue to receive pension benefits, predicted the "time is coming when all (four) retirement systems will be one."

Presently, the pension system includes separate Police and firemen's Pension and Disability Fund, the School Employees Retirement System, the Public Employees Retirement System and the Highway Patrol Retirement System.

Rep. Ralph Welker R-27 Pomeroy spoke on a proposal involving police and firemen who die without a widow, minor child or dependent parent surviving. Under the present law his contribution to the pension stays with the fund. Welker wants the contributions to go into the deceased man's estate as it does in other state pension funds.

Rep. Mack Pemberton R-61 Columbus who with Rep. Lawrence Hughes R-58 Columbus is sponsoring a bill which allows a retired state pension fund beneficiary to work 59 days a year without jeopardizing his pension. Pemberton said many small communities can use the experienced retirees in part-time posts.

Another bill has been introduced to give police or firemen a one-year's grace period to file a disability claim.

Louis E. Wolfson Appeal Is Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused Tuesday to throw out the federal securities conviction of Louis E. Wolfson, the junkyard owner's son who became a multimillionaire industrialist and now faces a year in prison.

Wolfson, 56, and his long-time business associate, Elkin B. Gerbert, were convicted in 1967 in New York City of selling a large block of unregistered stock owned by them or members of the Wolfson family.

Tennessee Judges Differ On Effect Of Ray Letters

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Two prison cell letters from James Earl Ray and the death of the judge who received them have placed the state of Tennessee in an apparent legal dilemma.

The problem is whether the circumstances may force authorities to give the admitted killer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the trial by jury he has been quoted as saying he wants.

Faced by seemingly conflicting opinions from higher judicial authority, four judges of the Shelby County Criminal Court huddled with prosecution officials Tuesday. None of those at the meeting would say what, if any, conclusion was reached.

Judge W. Preston Battle, who accepted Ray's guilty plea in Criminal Court March 10 and sentenced him to 99 years, disclosed nine days later that he had received a letter from Ray, saying he intended to "file for a postconviction hearing."

Battle, 60, died of a heart attack Monday in his chambers. Associates who searched his official effects said Tuesday they found a second letter which Ray asked the judge to treat "as a legal notice of an intent to ask for a reversal of the 99 year sentence."

Existence of the second letter written from the state penitentiary in Nashville, had not been made public by the judge. Its wordage raised the question whether it was the valid equivalent of a motion for a new trial, or perhaps a writ of habeas corpus.

High court judges differed on the implications of the letters. State Criminal Appeals Court Judge Charles Galbreath says a motion for a new trial filed within the 30-day review period is automatically granted when the judge who presided over the case dies before acting on it.

But Chief Justice Hamilton Burnett of the Tennessee Supreme Court said Ray's letters even if construed as motions, do not automatically guarantee a new trial.

"The new trial plea is one of the rights Ray waived in pleading guilty, along with his right of appeal to other state courts," said Burnett.

The justice said any petition filed by Ray would have to be ruled upon as a habeas corpus writ, in which a prisoner contends his rights were violated.

Commissioner Dies

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Clark County Commissioner Robert D. Chew, 55, died of a heart attack while attending a commission meeting Tuesday. Chew, a Democrat, operated an advertising firm here.

Burnett of the Tennessee Supreme Court said Ray's letters even if construed as motions, do not automatically guarantee a new trial.

"The new trial plea is one of the rights Ray waived in pleading guilty, along with his right of appeal to other state courts," said Burnett.

The justice said any petition filed by Ray would have to be ruled upon as a habeas corpus writ, in which a prisoner contends his rights were violated.

Medic's Testimony Against Sirhan Brings New Outburst

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Subdued and apologetic after a new display of ill temper, Sirhan Bishara Sirhan listened abstractedly to testimony that he did indeed have the mental capacity to plot Robert F. Kennedy's murder.

The young Jordanian cursed and had to be led from the courtroom Tuesday when a witness, psychiatrist Seymour Pollack, suggested he was a liar. But during discussion of the point most crucial to his case—whether he could maturely and meaningfully plot the murder—Sirhan swiveled in his chair and let his gaze roam the room idly.

Pollack directly contradicted previous psychiatric testimony when he said, "I believe Sirhan went to the Ambassador Hotel with the conscious intent of killing Sen. Kennedy."

Defense psychiatrists had said Sirhan killed Kennedy in a trance.

"It is my opinion Sirhan killed Kennedy because he hated him for what he stood for," said Pollack. "He saw himself as the defender of the Arab cause."

Q. You didn't find any suggestion of a break with reality?
A. Not at any time.

Sirhan 25, highly partisan to the Arab cause in the Middle East turmoil, became "convinced that Sen. Kennedy was an opportunist, exploiting the political scene by becoming subservient to American Jews in order to get their votes," Pollack said. "He focused on Kennedy as a leader to be destroyed."

The gray-haired professor from the University of Southern California added, "In my opinion, his mental capacity was not impaired to the extent that Sirhan had diminished capacity to harbor malice aforethought."

Diminished capacity is the basis of Sirhan's defense. Such a finding by the jury could result in a verdict less than first degree murder, which carries mandatory penalties of life in prison or death.

Judge W. Preston Battle, who accepted Ray's guilty plea in Criminal Court March 10 and sentenced him to 99 years, disclosed nine days later that he had received a letter from Ray, saying he intended to "file for a postconviction hearing."

Battle, 60, died of a heart attack Monday in his chambers. Associates who searched his official effects said Tuesday they found a second letter which Ray asked the judge to treat "as a legal notice of an intent to ask for a reversal of the 99 year sentence."

Existence of the second letter written from the state penitentiary in Nashville, had not been made public by the judge. Its wording raised the question whether it was the valid equivalent of a motion for a new trial, or perhaps a writ of habeas corpus.

High court judges differed on the implications of the letters. State Criminal Appeals Court Judge Charles Galbreath says a motion for a new trial filed within the 30-day review period is automatically granted when the judge who presided over the case dies before acting on it.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Clark County Commissioner Robert D. Chew, 55, died of a heart attack while attending a commission meeting Tuesday. Chew, a Democrat, operated an advertising firm here.

Burnett of the Tennessee Supreme Court said Ray's letters even if construed as motions, do not automatically guarantee a new trial.

"The new trial plea is one of the rights Ray waived in pleading guilty, along with his right of appeal to other state courts," said Burnett.

The justice said any petition filed by Ray would have to be ruled upon as a habeas corpus writ, in which a prisoner contends his rights were violated.

Medic's Testimony Against Sirhan Brings New Outburst

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Subdued and apologetic after a new display of ill temper, Sirhan Bishara Sirhan listened abstractedly to testimony that he did indeed have the mental capacity to plot Robert F. Kennedy's murder.

The young Jordanian cursed and had to be led from the courtroom Tuesday when a witness, psychiatrist Seymour Pollack, suggested he was a liar. But during discussion of the point most crucial to his case—whether he could maturely and meaningfully plot the murder—Sirhan swiveled in his chair and let his gaze roam the room idly.

Pollack directly contradicted previous psychiatric testimony when he said, "I believe Sirhan went to the Ambassador Hotel with the conscious intent of killing Sen. Kennedy."

Defense psychiatrists had said Sirhan killed Kennedy in a trance.

"It is my opinion Sirhan killed Kennedy because he hated him for what he stood for," said Pollack. "He saw himself as the defender of the Arab cause."

Q. You didn't find any suggestion of a break with reality?
A. Not at any time.

Sirhan 25, highly partisan to the Arab cause in the Middle East turmoil, became "convinced that Sen. Kennedy was an opportunist, exploiting the political scene by becoming subservient to American Jews in order to get their votes," Pollack said. "He focused on Kennedy as a leader to be destroyed."

The gray-haired professor from the University of Southern California added, "In my opinion, his mental capacity was not impaired to the extent that Sirhan had diminished capacity to harbor malice aforethought."

Diminished capacity is the basis of Sirhan's defense. Such a finding by the jury could result in a verdict less than first degree murder, which carries mandatory penalties of life in prison or death.

Illegal Liquor Becomes Big Ohio Problem

By ED HOWARD
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Moonshine remains big business in Ohio and people who buy the illegal liquor are often found in jail cells—and sometimes funeral parlors.

Tougher state laws and tighter enforcement of those already on the books seems inevitable.

The Ohio Department of Liquor Control reports three Gahanna residents died recently after drinking contaminated moonshine.

Department Director Donald D. Cook said illegal liquor, "often brewed in the filthiest of conditions," is killing, blinding and paralyzing users each year.

Cook said the bootleg liquor business cost Ohio at least $50, 000 in revenue last year.

There is heavy traffic in illegal liquor in Ohio, Cook said, adding that in 1968 the department destroyed 72 stills.

Since 1963 Cook's 90 full-time agents have raided hundreds of bootleg locations. Federal and local officers usually take part in the seizures.

Cook is campaigning for legislation to halt the illegal sale of out-of-state liquor being brought into Ohio. Some bonded liquor, made in Kentucky, is sold in Ohio at cut rate prices, taking funds from state and federal revenues.

Sales of out-of-state liquor is costing Ohio "thousands of dollars a year," Cook said, but the results of moonshine traffic is often as tragic as it is costly.

Last year the department raided the biggest still found in Ohio in 20 years in the hills of Adams County. The facility could produce 200 gallons of illegal whisky "in a single run."

The still operators were apprehended, and then placed on probation in federal court.

Agents may observe a still for days before raiding it in an attempt to catch the brewers.

Moonshiners are usually tried under federal law which provides penalties of up to $10,000 fines, five years imprisonment, or both.

Chief of enforcement for the department, Wade Knight, said sections of Ohio, including Mahoning, Ashtabula, Lawrence and Scioto counties, are big moonshine areas.

Knight's agents often survey a suspected still for months, gathering evidence and awaiting the arrival of the owner. His men have been shot at and beaten. In November, 1964, agent James B. Burns was shot and killed while investigating bootlegging operations in Xenia.

Knight's men frequently risk their lives "to keep people from drinking garbage."

This stuff is brewed in filth and it's the person who doesn't get poisoned who is fast becoming the exception," liquor department agents say.

The capture of the moonshiner as a happy, liquor sipping country man comparable to a Snuffy Smith or Li'l Abner cartoons is ridiculous, the department said. Moonshiners run their goods for money and their interest is quantity, not quality.

Many illegal distillers have moved their operation to urban areas. A still located in a city where air pollution is rampant is hard to detect. An indoor still, Knight said, can run longer and produce more than the outdoor variety.

"They're clever enough," Knight said. "Stills are sometimes hidden underground. They hide them in basements, they pipe the fumes away to streams or out chimneys, but we usually manage to bust a still in less than 90 days of operation."

Knight, whose office is decorated with sawed off shotguns and pistols taken from the illegal brewers, said he would like to see stiffer penalties handed moonshiners.

Fines aren't stiff enough to take the profit out of illegal traffic, Cook said. The department may confiscate a "booze running" vehicle but the courts are authorized to give them back, and sometimes do.

Cook said his department's liquor store operations provided $300 million in revenue for 1968. When moonshiners profit, Cook said, state education and welfare lose. Money from state liquor stores is used for this purpose.

State agents work closely with federal alcohol and treasury agents. The state men have to watch for moonshiners, enforce laws and liquor permit holding establishments and control the flow of out-of-state liquor into Ohio.

Cook will seek stronger legis-

Careless Driver Beaten To Death

UITENHAGE, South Africa (AP) — A mob of Africans dragged a driver from a light lation to curb the illicit liquor traffic this year.

His case is backed up by the fact that 65 moonshine stills, operating mostly four hours daily for 30 days could produce 39,600 gallons of illegal liquor, agents say. Federal and state tax losses would be $475,200, and loss to legal manufacturers would be about $200,000.

In southern states illegal liquor traffic is heavier, Knight said, and deaths from bad whiskey are more frequent.

"We're doing everything possible to protect Ohioans," Knight said.

truck and beat him to death after the truck knocked down a pedestrian, police reported.

Both the driver and the pedestrian—who was not seriously injured—were Africans.

1939 Decision Paved Way For Ike's Rise To Greatness

EDITOR'S NOTE — Third of five articles based on the author's forthcoming biography, "Dwight D. Eisenhower: A Gauge of Greatness."

By RELMAN MORIN
AP Special Correspondent

Dwight D. Eisenhower's four years of service in the Philippine Islands, and his decision to come home in the autumn of 1939, constitute two more critical turning-points in his career. They led directly to the historic role he was destined to play in World War II.

He went to the Philippines—much against his will—as senior aide to Gen. Douglas MacArthur. After a series of desk jobs in Washington during the mid-30's, Eisenhower wanted very much to command troops in the field. MacArthur, however, gave him no choice. His task in Manila was to work out a defense plan for the islands. By 1939, it was complete, or as complete as it ever could be, considering the limitations in funds and available equipment.

On a warm, tropical evening in September of that year, Eisenhower heard the radio broadcast from London which announced that Britain, honoring her commitment to Poland, had declared war on Nazi Germany. So World War II began, as Eisenhower's mentor, Gen. Fox Conner, had predicted 15 years before.

Eisenhower immediately asked MacArthur for permission to return to the United States. MacArthur replied that Eisenhower's work with the new Filipino army was more important than anything he could do at home, but he granted the request.

Eisenhower then called on Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippines, and advised him of his intention. Quezon liked Eisenhower as a man and he had developed the highest respect for him as a professional soldier. He tried to dissuade Eisenhower from leaving Manila.

In effect, Quezon told him he could write his own ticket, in terms of salary, if he would remain. He signed a blank contract form and told Eisenhower to fill in any amount, within reason, that he wanted.

Eisenhower replied, "Mr. President, your offer is flattering. But no amount of money can make me change my mind. It's a matter of personal conviction with me. I believe we're going to get into this war and I'm going home to try to help do my part in preparing for it."

Quezon gave a farewell lunch for Eisenhower and his wife and there awarded him the Distinguished Service Star of the Philippines.

The citation read: "Through his outstanding achievements in the service of the Philippine government he has increased the brilliance of his already enviable reputation, and has earned the gratitude and esteem of the Filipino people."

The liner that carried Eisenhower and Mamie out of Manila Bay sailed past a chunk of rock Corregidor. That name was destined to be engraved for all time in American military history.

Suppose Eisenhower had yielded to Quezon's wishes and remained in Manila. Would he have become a casualty on Bataan? A prisoner of war in a Japanese stockade? His great career, barely begun, would have ended in the Philippines.

Events soon told him he had made the right move in deciding to come home.

By the end of 1940, thousands of draftees were flooding into the armed forces. Eisenhower became a full colonel on March 11, 1940. Now, in the expanding Army, he felt certain that he would be given a field command and he particularly wanted a tank regiment. His hopes were not to be realized, but a much more important assignment awaited him in the Louisiana maneuvers.

The war games, planned in the summer of 1941, pitted the 2nd and 3rd armies against each other in a large-scale operation. Eisenhower was appointed chief of staff to Lt. Gen. Walter Kreuger, commander of the 3rd Army, a force of 300,000 men.

The maneuvers began in August and the main engagements lasted into late September. By Sept. 25, the Army umpires ruled that the 3rd Army had decisively defeated its "enemy." A Washington newspaperman reported that, "Col. Eisenhower... conceived and directed the strategy that routed the 2nd Army."

Eisenhower's technical competence as a planner and strategist was becoming well known throughout the Army and there was additional evidence of it.

He always enjoyed relating an anecdote that presumably took place during the maneuvers. He said a corporal was marching his detail across a bridge that had been ruled knocked out by artillery fire. An umpire shouted, "Hey, can't you see that bridge has been destroyed?" The corporal replied, "Of course, I can see it's destroyed. Can't you see we're swimming?"

The dust of the vast maneuvers had barely settled when Washington advised Eisenhower that President Roosevelt had submitted to the Senate his nomination for the temporary rank of brigadier-general. He received his first star on Sept. 29, 1941.

Exactly two months later, on Nov. 29, a Japanese naval task force secretly slipped out of its home waters. A flow of dummy radio messages, normal in volume to the listening American monitors, masked its departure. The dark gray warships steamed slowly along a north easterly course and disappeared in the fog and lonely wastes of the north Pacific. The task force commander sailed under sealed orders. When he opened the envelope and read them he learned his objective—Pearl Harbor.

On Sunday, Dec. 7, Eisenhower went to his office in Ft. Sam Houston, San Antonio, Tex. He had been working every weekend after the end of the maneuvers, summarizing and evaluating the findings. They had exposed weaknesses at all levels and of many types. Eisenhower was busy night and day drafting reports and recommending corrective measures.

He returned to his quarters in the afternoon of that Sunday, said he wanted a nap, and told Mamie he was not to be disturbed "under any circumstances." He had barely closed his eyes when his office telephoned and advised him of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Five days later, he was told that Gen. George C. Marshall, the chief of staff, wanted him in Washington as soon as possible. Why? The officer who called him did not know. Mystified, Eisenhower left San Antonio with-in the hour. He reached Washington on Sunday, Dec. 14, and went directly from the railway station to Marshall's office.

In a few terse sentences, Marshall briefed him on the situation in the Far East. Everything pointed to an all-out Japanese offensive against the Philippines. "What should be our general line of action?" he asked Eisenhower.

"Give me a couple of hours," Eisenhower replied.

Within the two hours he formulated the plan by which Australia was to house the main Allied base in the Pacific with subsidiary bases, like stepping stones, forming the supply line from Hawaii across the Pacific.

Apart from strategy and logistics, Eisenhower added a note that probably would not have occurred to him but for his four years in the Orient. He told Marshall that the peoples of Southeast Asia would watch American efforts to hold the Philippines with the keenest interest. "They may excuse failure," he said, "but they will not excuse abandonment." Therefore, he continued, every effort must be taken and every effort made to help the Filipinos.

"I agree with you," Marshall said. "Do your best to save them."

Marshall never told Eisenhower why he selected him, a newly-minted brigadier, for this critical undertaking. The reason, however, seems obvious. Eisenhower was one of the few senior officers who knew the Philippines, the plan of defense, and the capabilities of the American and Filipino troops in the islands.

Now he was on the way to becoming Marshall's right-hand man.

Masheter Sees More Road Work

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — P. E. Masheter, Ohio director of highways, told an engineering conference at Ohio State University Tuesday that with settlement of federal regulatory procedures the state can now move forward on $430 million worth of construction this year.

He noted that "any forecast of Ohio's roadbuilding program for 1969 was strictly conjecture several weeks ago and that much depended on the removal of restrictive regulations in Washington."

Much also depended on the reception by the Ohio General

Assembly to the department's proposed implementation of State Issue One, he said.

Uphold Union Right To Curb Workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court upheld Tuesday the right of unions to punish workers who go over production quotas.

Fining or even expelling piece workers who exceed production quotas set by the union is a matter of internal policy not forbidden by federal labor law, the court said 7 to 1.

Kheel To Try Negotiating Talent On College Students

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—One of the nation's best known labor mediators tries to find out today whether his techniques will work in college campus disputes.

Theodore W. Kheel of New York, a lawyer who has settled maritime and airline industries, scheduled a series of meetings with student groups, faculty members and the administration of Pennsylvania State University.

He said his only purpose was to find out whether he could bring them all together to talk over their grievances—"It's not my plan to get into any particular problem."

Kheel's invitation to try his hand at campus mediation came from Jacob J. Kaufman, an economics professor.

Kaufman said he thought Penn State was ideal for experimenting with a new approach to the tensions that have swept American campuses.

Unrest at Penn State, which has an enrollment of about 25,000, has focused on greater student participation in university affairs and increased black

New Czech Trouble Seen

VIENNA (AP)—Czechoslovakia's Communist leaders blamed the country's press, radio and television today for the anti-Soviet demonstrations last week and said the country stands "on the verge of disaster."

The party's leaders said they would take "resolute measures against everything which disrupts our close relationship with the Soviet Union."

The statements were contained in a resolution of the party's ruling presidium adopted at a meeting Tuesday night. It was evidently in response to Soviet pressure resulting from the anti-Soviet outbursts after Czechoslovakia's hockey victories over the Soviet Union.

The statement seemed to foreshadow a crackdown on the country's newspapers, magazines, radio and television, which have continued to be outspoken despite the presence in the country of 70,000 Soviet occupation troops.

The party presidium said the hockey victory demonstrations "did not occur by chance" but took place in "an atmosphere of emotions artificially stirred up by part of the mass media and intensive bourgeois propaganda from abroad."

Researcher Says Reds Nearing War Superiority

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Soviet Union could gain nuclear superiority over the United States within two years, a researcher says.

Dr. Stefan T. Possony, director of international studies at Stanford University's Hoover Institution, said Tuesday the United States lacks a defense against Soviet SS-9 missiles which have 20 megaton warheads capable of destroying underground missile sites.

Possony told a Town Hall meeting the antiballistic missile system advocated by President Nixon "is one element which will deter the Russians from launching their missiles against us."

Possony is a former special adviser to the Air Force intelligence staff.

enrollment, typical complaints at many colleges.

The idea of impartial mediation caught the fancy of at least one student leader.

"I think the possibility of a dialogue has existed all along," said Thomas Richdale, president of the Students for a Democratic Society. "That's all that we have wanted."

Richdale said students at a recent sit-in, "wanted someone from the administration to come out and talk to them. Instead, they sent police."

"The main problem on campus is that there is no real communication between the students and the administration," one university official said.

Cincinnati Hotels Hit By Walkout; Effects Noticeable

CINCINNATI (AP)—A strike that has crippled four downtown hotels entered its second day today, forcing many guests to carry their own luggage and causing a shutdown of several dining rooms and lounges.

Pickets maintained their posts in front of the Hotels Netherland-Hilton, Terrace-Hilton, Sheraton-Gibson and Metropole.

Demanding a 90-cent hourly pay raise over the next two years, 60 maintenance workers walked out at midnight Monday. Hours later, approximately 500 other hotel employees of various unions agreed to honor picket lines.

The strikers are members of either the Firemen and Oilers Local 49 or Operating Engineers Local 20.

Sen. Harris Puts His Mark On Demo Party Organization

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new look at Democratic national headquarters these days is a little bit of Kennedy and a lot of Humphrey but mostly it's of Fred R. Harris, the party's new national chairman.

For the first time in nearly a decade, there has been what amounts to a full committee changeover and Harris, the 37-year-old Oklahoma senator who campaigned openly for the job, is firmly in control.

But Hubert H. Humphrey's influence remains. Harris, after all, was campaign manager for the former vice president before the Democratic National Convention last year and was unanimously elected committee chairman after Humphrey's endorsement.

The position provided by the committee is important to Humphrey, since he doesn't have a family political organization like Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts—already a figure for a possible role in the 1972 presidential sweepstakes.

Another likely contender for the party's nomination, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, apparently carries less influence in committee circles although he evolved from a Senate backbencher to a sought-after party spokesman during his unsuccessful campaign for the vice presidency last year.

But it is Harris, who is trying to prove he can be a full-time party chairman and a full-time senator simultaneously, who clearly is running the show.

And should Kennedy or Muskie—both New England Catholics—need a Protestant Southwesterner to balance the 1972 ticket, his efforts could pay big personal dividends.

Officers Again Face Charges

CINCINNATI (AP)—A suburban Blue Ash housewife refiled assault and battery charges Monday against two policemen after having them dismissed last Thursday because she was late to court.

Allie Williams accused Blue Ash patrolmen Frank Sutter and Paul Wilder of pushing her down and squirting her with a liquid chemical as they arrested her son, Howard S. Bailey.

Yorty Forced Into Runoff; Goldwater Jr. A Winner

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Los Angeles City Councilman Thomas Bradley, a Negro who apparently drew heavy support from white voters, has forced incumbent Samuel W. Yorty into a runoff election for mayor.

Barry Goldwater Jr., son of the Republican senator from Arizona, launched his own political career in nearby San Fernando Valley in Tuesday's elections, by easily winning the GOP nomination for a seat in Congress.

Goldwater, a stockbroker, will face Democrat John Van De Kamp, a former Justice Department lawyer, in a runoff April 29 for the seat vacated by Ed Reinecke, who became California lieutenant governor.

With about 65 per cent of the precincts counted, Goldwater votes as his Democratic opponent more than twice the Democrat claimed victory in the only other congressional contest Tuesday.

Wisconsin State Assemblyman David R. Obey defeated Republican State Sen. Walter John Chilsen in the battle for the seat left by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird.

Democratic National Chairman Fred R. Harris cheered the victory in what he called "the very region of the country which elected Richard Nixon president last November." He said it's the first time a Democrat has won the seat in the 7th District.

Virtually complete returns gave the Democrat about a 2,000-vote edge.

The Los Angeles City election saw Bradley, a 51-year-old attorney and former police lieutenant, open up a wide early lead in the 14-man race.

In a city with an estimated 15 per cent Negro population, he had almost 42 per cent of the vote with half the precincts in. Yorty had 26 per cent and the other candidates were far behind.

Bradley had the backing of Democratic party leaders in the nonpartisan election, and Yorty was in his familiar role as a party maverick.

In other elections Tuesday: —St. Louis Mayor A. J. C. Cervantes, a Democrat, was re-elected handily, but a Republican took the first city-wide election in 18 years as Joseph L. Daracco won the presidency of the Board of Aldermen.

—Dallas voters returned Mayor Erik Jonsson to office and his Citizens Charter Association won nine of 10 city council seats. A runoff will be held for another seat April 15.

Warm Air Fans Over Much Of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Mild weather fanned over a large part of the nation today and rains watered many northern areas.

Temperatures remained in the 40s and 50s overnight through the midcontinent after a day of highs generally in the 60s and 70s. The mercury reached 81 in St. Louis at midday Tuesday.

Showers dampened a section from the Southern Plains through the Ohio Valley and into New England. Rain or drizzle was general around the Great Lakes region.

A fresh outbreak of arctic cold entered the Northern Plains during the night and scattered occasional snow flurries over the Dakotas and into Minnesota.

Cooler air seeping into the Pacific Northwest again brought rain to coastal sections of Washington and Oregon.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 13 at Grand Forks, N.D., to 74 in Key West, Fla.

5 More Ohioans Viet Casualties

They were Army Spec. 4 Dennis R. Richards of Marion, Army Spec. 4 Robert V. Shraack Jr. of New Burlington, Marine Lance Cpl. Dennis G. Johnson of Milford, Marine Lance Cpl. Samuel V. Ramsey Jr. of Canton, and Marine Pfc. Jerry Dishman of Akron.

Marine Cpl. Mark D. Marshall of South Euclid was listed as having died not as a result of hostile action.

Heat Used In Battle On Cancer

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A new nurse to help cure many desperate human cancers could be a fever.

A feverish heat is one of nature's ways of throwing off germ and virus infections.

So scientists now are planning to heat up the whole human body with artificial fevers in hopes of killing cancers. They also plan to use anticancer drugs simultaneously for a double punch.

Fever as a helpful nurse is not a new idea. Some 100 years ago, a German doctor noticed that a man with cancer of the jaw recovered after an infection causing high fever.

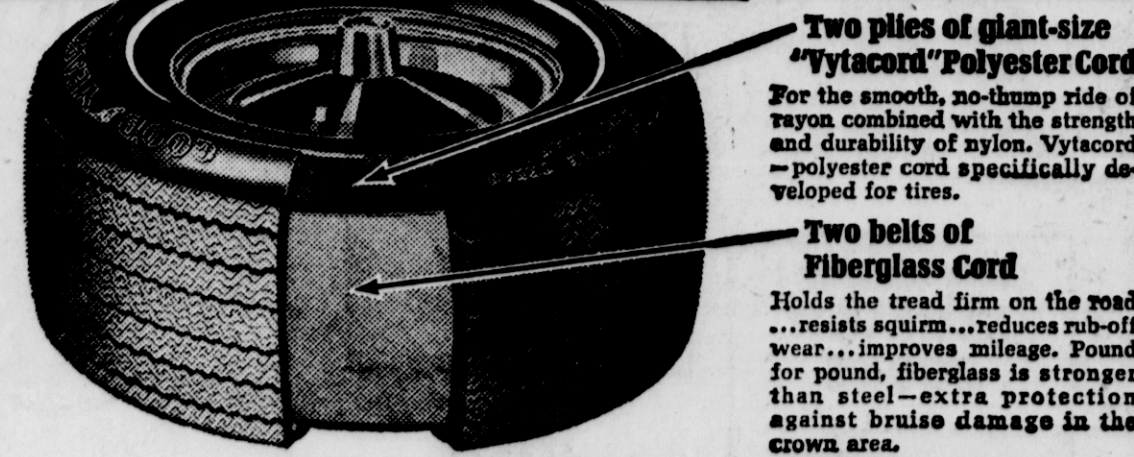

Much more recent research points to heat as a weapon against cancer. Dr. Charles Heidelberger of the University of Wisconsin said today in a report to an American Cancer Society seminar for science writers.

Cooperative research at Wisconsin and the University of Rome, Italy, showed that heating the blood supply to the arms and legs to about 107 degrees Fahrenheit produced complete disappearance of cancers in eight of 22 patients. They have been well now for at least two years, two of them for more than four years. Normal body temperature is 98.6.

Errors Sink Hapless Angels, 14-9, By Pilots

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

One dose of Dick Stuart's patent medicine revived California's sinking offense. But the patient died in a tragedy of errors—through no fault of the good Dr. Strangelove.

Stuart, the good hit-no field journeyman making a comeback bid with California, pinch hit a grand slam homer in the top of the sixth inning of Tuesday's exhibition game against Seattle.

The blast sent the Angels ahead 8-7, but Stuart's new teammates committed four errors in the bottom of the sixth, handing the Pilots seven unearned runs and a 14-9 victory.

Elsewhere, St. Louis edged Detroit 5-4 in 10 innings, Boston blanked the New York Yankees 2-0, Montreal beat Cincinnati 5-0, Kansas City trimmed Baltimore 3-0, Philadelphia slugged Minnesota *11-5, the Chicago Cubs whipped San Diego 8-5, the New York Mets drubbed Pittsburgh 7-3, Atlanta topped the Chicago White Sox 7-5 and Cleveland nipped San Francisco 6-5.

Los Angeles downed Houston 7-3 in 10 innings Tuesday night.

Stuart, a non-roster California candidate who played in Japan the past two years after earning the Dr. Strangelove tag during turbulent stints with Pittsburgh, Boston, the Mets and the Dodgers, cleared the bases with his third spring homer.

But the Pilots quickly regained the edge on a walk, the four errors and singles by Jim Gosger, Jerry McNertney, Gus Gil, Mike Hegan and Tommy Davis.

Seattle has won five in a row and is 5-0 against the Angels.

Detroit's Ron Woods dropped Tim McCarver's fly ball for a two-base error in the 10th and Steve Huntz' two-out single delivered the winning run for the Cardinals. Jim Price's eighth inning homer had pulled the Tigers even.

Ray Culp allowed just two hits for eight innings and Sparky Lyle pitched a hitless ninth, leading the Red Sox past the Yankees.

Montreal shut out the Reds behind Jim Grant, who scattered eight hits through eight innings, and Carroll Sembera.

Roger Nelson stopped his former Baltimore mates on four hits through the sixth and Mike Hedlund mopped up with three perfect innings as the Royals handed the Orioles their fourth setback in 21 spring starts.

Three run homers by Mike Ryan and Ricardo Joseph powered the Phillies' past against Minnesota.

Billy Williams slammed a three-run homer and Ron Santo connected with one on in the Cubs' triumph over San Diego.

Tommie Agee lashed a homer, double and single for the Mets, who cuffed Pittsburgh starter Bob Veale for five runs in the first two innings.

The Braves rallied for four runs in the ninth to overtake the White Sox.

Richie Scheinblum delivered the Indians' winning run with his second double, a two-out shot in the ninth.

Bill Sudakis' sacrifice fly, Wes Parker's two-run single and Paul Popovich's RBI single broke up the Dodgers-Astros duel in the 10th after an error by Doug Rader opened the gates.

CHS Baseball Buckeyes Loaded With Offensive Backfield Talent

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—No college football team in the nation can boast as many talented offensive backs that Ohio State will carry on its roster this fall.

The national champion Buckeyes are loaded with versatile performers, seven of whom returned from the 1968 squad that posted an unblemished 10 - 0 campaign, including a Jan. 1 Rose Bowl victory over Southern California.

Coach Woody Hayes, who looked at his grid heroes Tuesday in the first day of spring drills, may have a unique problem.

Picking a starting backfield could be the most ticklish chore Hayes has faced in a 19-year reign.

Competition for starting roles should be fierce with a quartet of outstanding freshmen bidding for varsity berths. How to get the most effective use of this surplus material could become a kingsize headache—a problem that any coach would like to face.

Hayes gave his backs ample opportunity to display their talents last year. His leading rushers, including the top two quarterbacks — Rex Kern and Ron Maciejowski—all return.

They are fullback Jim Otis, halfbacks Larry Zelina, Dave Brunegard, Leo Hayden, John Brockington, Ray Gillian and Paul Huff, the backup fullback who only carried 14 times in 1968.

Otis, who led the club in scoring with 96 points on 16 touchdowns, also topped the ground gainers with 884 yards net in 189 carries for a 4.7 average.

Kern gained 499 yards in 119 cracks; Zelina rushed 329 in only 38 for an eye-catching 8.7 average; Brunegard piled up 261 in 61 thrusts; Hayden 194 in 46 chances; Maciejowski 192 in 43 tries; Brockington 181 in 43 and Gillian 111 in 13 attempts.

These backs were responsible for almost all the 2,753 yards the Buckeyes netted with a powerful ground attack. Still, Kern and Maciejowski found time to balance the running game with 1,283 yards passing on 91 completions in 158 attempts.

For Ohio's Sept. 27 opener against Texas Christian, Hayes is likely to go with Kern at quarterback; Otis at full; either Hayden or Brunegard at tailback and Zelina at right halfback.

There is talk of switching Huff to an offensive tackle spot with Brockington moving in behind Otis. For added depth, Woody can count on frosh stars Tom Campana of Kent Roosevelt; Ken Lutner from Medina Highland; Harry Howard of Cincinnati; Princeton and Jimmy Lee Harris of Dayton Roth.

Campana likely is to be used as a kick return specialist; Howard as a defensive back; Lutner, as a defensive end and Harris as a split end or flanker.

Bill Edwards To Bow Out As Wittenberg Grid Pilot

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—William M. "Bill" Edwards, who built Wittenberg University into a small college football power, announced his retirement today from active coaching after 14 successive winning seasons.

The 63-year-old coach, whose career spans 37 years on the high school, collegiate and professional levels, will continue to serve as athletic director at his alma mater.

One of his immediate tasks will be to select a successor. Dave Maurer, Edwards' chief assistant for 14 years, likely is to win the head football coaching assignment.

In 24 years as a collegiate head coach, Edwards has compiled a brilliant 168-45-8 record. He coached at Western Reserve from 1935-1940; Vanderbilt from 1949-52; and Wittenberg from 1955-1968.

His .778 winning percentage at the end of the 1968 campaign, was the second best mark among active coaches with more than 100 triumphs.

Edwards' 37 years of coaching also includes high school positions at Springfield and Fostoria in Ohio; college assistant jobs at Western Reserve and the University of North Carolina and pro duties as head coach of the Detroit Lions in 1941 and tackle coach of the Cleveland Browns in 1947 and 1948.

In announcing his retirement as a head coach, Edwards said: "I've never been much of a retiring person and I'm not ready to just sit by the fireside. All this means is that now I can be an athletic director and a teacher."

"Regardless of where I have coached, my philosophy of football has always been the same. The name of the game is winning. If a coach doesn't believe in this and dedicate himself to victory, he isn't being fair to his players or to himself."

Since returning to Wittenberg where he won All-Ohio and All-American recognition as a center in 1929 and 1930, Edwards has never experienced a losing season.

Included in his 98-20-4 record at Wittenberg are three unbeaten seasons—1962, 1963 and 1964—and five years with only one loss. The 1962 and 1964 teams were named the nation's best small college team by the Washington Touchdown Club.

The American Football Coaches Association named Edwards the Coach of the Year in 1963 and 1963. A native of Massillon, Edwards also was chosen Ohio Coach of the Year in 1957 and 1962.

Circleville scored 34 points in a triangular track meet at Lancaster Tuesday, winning only one of the 15 events and finishing third.

The Logan Elm track team finished third in a triangular meet it hosted Tuesday.

Carroll won the meet with 77½ points. Southeastern was second with 46 points and the Braves scored 53½.

Logan Elm competitors finished first in three events. Steve Pusey won the mile with a time of 5:14.9. Jim Fox was first in the low hurdles with a time of 22.6 seconds.

Jim Schwalbach paced to a 2:17.5 win in the 880-yard run. The Braves were second in three events.

Tom Hunter was second in the shot, Jim Fox tied for second in the high hurdles and the mile relay team finished second.

The next meet for the Braves is Thursday at Union.

Gussie Busch Stirs Up Cardinals

By JACK HAND
ST. PETERSBURGH, Fla. (AP) — Take it from the man who foots the bill of a record $950,000 payroll, the St. Louis Cardinals are expected to win a third straight National League pennant this year.

Gussie Busch, rich brewer who owns the Cardinals, made it crystal clear to the hired hands in an unusual clubhouse meeting with the players.

Busch warned that some fans are saying "our players are getting fat" and money-crazy. He chided out those who reportedly ignore the fans, refuse to sign autographs and fail to show up for appointments.

"Last year a lot of people were saying that you were an accident," he said, "and that you couldn't repeat again. Many are saying the same things this year. Only you can prove whether they are right or wrong. Let's show the world that we are the real champions."

Busch's session with the players was only one of a number of unusual events in a camp that usually is quiet. The trade that sent Orlando Cepeda to Atlanta for Joe Torre surprised many. The holdouts, following the boycott in the pension dispute, resulted in a late start for key personnel.

To top it off Manager Red Schoendienst spent a couple of days in the hospital with abdominal pains.

Bing Devine, general manager, started making changes before the last out in the losing World Series with Detroit. He brought in Vada Pinson from Cincinnati to take over right field from Roger Maris, who retired, and engineered two deals to get Dave Giusti, first from Houston and later from San Diego after he had been lost in the expansion draft.

The trade for Torre was a surprise although Cepeda had dropped off to .248 last season after hitting .325 and winning the Most Valuable Player award in 1967. Torre, primarily a catcher and an All-Star at that, played first base at times for the Braves and will become the Cards' regular.

However, Torre may see plenty of work as a catcher if Tim McCarver's 253 slump of 1968 continues. Joe Hague, a rookie first baseman, comes up with fine minor league credentials as a slugger.

The infield lineup is set at the other positions with Julian Javier, who has been troubled by a back condition, at second, Dal Maxvill at short and Mike Shannon at third.

The outfielder probably is the fastest, and possibly the best, in baseball. Lou Brock in left, Curt Flood in center and Pinson in right are formidable. Pinson has been hitting at a .500 clip during the spring games. Jim Hicks, who hit .366 at Tulsa, may stick as an extra despite his age, 29, and past failures with the Chicago White Sox.

Schoendienst's main problem has been to come up with the proper reserves. Steve Huntz, up from Tulsa, may make it as insurance for Maxvill since Dick Schofield was traded to Boston for relief pitcher Gary Waslewski. Phil Gagliano and Jerry Buchek, back from the Mets, also are fighting for extra jobs. Now Bob Johnson has been added.

Bob Gibson is the big man of the pitching staff off his 22.9 season and fabulous record 1.12 ERA. Gibson, who held out and reportedly received $125,000, got a late start but will be ready.

Nelson Briles, Steve Carlton

and Ray Washburn are the other proven starters. Giusti, an 11-game winner for the Astros, was bombed in his early start for the Cards. He is battling with rookie Mike Torrez for the No. 5 job.

Joe Hoerner and Waslewski appear to be set for the relief corps. Bo Belinsky, picked up in the draft, has been effective but wild. Ron Willis, who appeared in 48 games last year despite some elbow trouble, and Dick Hughes, who did time on the disabled list with a sore shoulder, are other bullpen contenders.

"If we get that good pitching again," said Schoendienst, "we should be stronger than last year. Pinson is going to be a big help and we are looking to Torre for some solid hitting."

When you consider that the Cards breezed home by nine games last year and by 10½ games the year before, and now have added men like Pinson, Torre and Giusti it is no wonder Gil Hodges of the Mets calls them, "the best club in baseball."

Weightlifting Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The World Weightlifting Championships will be staged at Veterans Memorial in Columbus in 1970. Some 150 athletes from 30 nations are expected to compete in the Sept. 18-27 event.

Logan Elm Opens Season With Loss

Braves Defeated By Carroll In 6-3 Inaugural

Logan Elm opened the baseball season for area teams, losing to visiting Carroll Tuesday, 6-3.

"It was a typical first game with a lot of errors," LE coach Vic Pontius reported. "We've got an all new infield this year and they made some mental errors."

Pontius said that he was encouraged with the performance of his team in spite of the loss.

Carroll opened the scoring in the third inning, pushing one run across the plate. The visitors followed in the fourth with three runs and added two in the top of the sixth.

LOGAN Elm's first run came in the bottom of the sixth when singles by Steve Curtis and Steve Sykes sandwiched around a walk to K. C. Jones produced a score.

In the bottom of the seventh, a walk and a pair of errors accounted for a pair of runs for the Braves.

Curtis, Sykes, Dan Fausnaugh, Chuck West and Bob Triplehorn all banged singles for the Braves.

Steve Swank started on the mound for the losers, allowing seven hits, fanning three and walking four in five innings.

Danny Fausnaugh pitched the last two innings, allowing two hits, fanning four and walking one.

Carroll used three pitchers, Johnson, Myers and Coey. They gave up five hits, walked five and struck out 10.

LOGAN Elm host Paint Valley Thursday in a Scioto Valley Conference game. A reserve game is scheduled at Logan Elm today with Teays Valley, weather permitting.

Swank was injured after he was taken off the mound. He was hit by a line drive in the dugout and was admitted to Berger hospital for observation.

DAVE Hopkins turned in a 54.5 quarter mile, no bad time by any means this early in the season, but finished second. The race was won in 53.8.

Bill McGowan was second in the 880-yard run. Mike Henderson was third in the 220 yard dash and fourth in the 100 yard dash. Dan Spradlin was fourth in the high jump as well as finishing second in the broad jump.

Paul Bost was fourth in the pole vault.

"We're weak in the shot right now. The potential is there but we lack experience," Lint commented.

"It looks like we will have good depth in the hurdles, but we have no great speed in the sprints."

The next action for the Tigers is a dual meet with Teays Valley Thursday at Tiger Stadium.

LINT has scheduled 10 dual meets this year. "All the kids get a chance to participate in a dual meet," Lint said. "This way we are sure of getting everybody in at least ten meets to keep their interest up."

"When we go to the larger meets and the invitationals, only the top two in each event get to compete."

Fans To Host LE Cagers At Smorgasbord

The Logan Elm basketball team will be honored by its fans April 11 at Dave's Buffet.

The varsity and reserve cheerleaders, players, coaches and managers will be the guests of the fans at the banquet slated to start at 7 p.m.

Reservations and donations should be made before April 6 with Orville Kempton, Roy Dunkle, Alan Ankrom, Gene Wright, Paul Congrove, Jim Hardman or Marvin Hartman.

John Bridgers, former Baylor football coach, will be an assistant coach with the Pittsburgh Steelers next season.

Desertion Wins Divorce For Man

PITTSBURGH (AP) — When Arthur Addison's wife didn't come home after 48 years he sued for divorce, charging desertion.

"When were you married?" his attorney asked him in Common Pleas Court.

"I can't remember—it's been so long," said Addison, 79.

"Well, when did she leave you?"

"She left four or five different times—I had to go 'round and fetch her. But she left for good in 1921."

Putting you first, keeps us first.

Front to rear: Kingswood Estate Wagon. Concours Station Wagon, Sportvan and Suburban.

No other wagons have such a capacity for enjoyment.

Show you what we mean.

Say you're in a Chevrolet Kingswood or Concours Walk-In Wagon, when suddenly the road becomes nothing but chuckholes and ruts. Only you can't tell it's rough.

You see, Chevy wagons float along on computer-selected coil springs that smooth even the meanest road.

Maybe you're a bit more serious about the great outdoors. So are we. That's why we offer the Chevy Sportvan and Suburban. To an outdoorsman, they're like clear skies and no mosquitoes.

So before you head out to see the U.S.A., better stop by your Chevrolet dealer's.

Democrats, Republicans Disagree On Inflation Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic members of the Senate-Economic Committee say administration efforts to curb inflation could boost unemployment by up to half a million workers.

Not so, say Republican members of the committee. They say gradual but firm restraints on the economy need not have such an effect on a work force made up increasingly of people in stable service jobs.

And, they add, manpower and training programs can help cushion the impact of an economic downturn.

These views were included in separate reports filed Tuesday by Republican and Democratic members of the joint committee after lengthy hearings into the state of the nation's economy.

Generally, they agreed on what was wrong, but not on what to do about it.

The Democrats said the country still needs wage-price guidelines—which the Republicans said didn't work.

The new Nixon administration scuttled the guidelines, the Democrats wrote, and "at the same time it proposes an anti-inflationary mix of monetary and fiscal policies sufficiently restrictive to raise unemployment ... by between 300,000 and 500,000 workers."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, ranking Republican on the committee, told a news conference his party is not for "putting on the brakes so hard as to bring on a recession or worse."

No increase in unemployment is acceptable Javits said, and an increase from the present 3.3 per cent to 5 per cent would mean real trouble.

Both reports spoke of continuing the 10 per cent income surtax, but both hedged a bit.

The Democrats said this was one of several measures that could be used alone or in combination to fight inflation. The others were a wholly unlikely $12-billion cut in spending or extensive tax reforms.

The Republicans said the surtax should be continued, but the President should be given authority to reduce it if conditions changed.

U.S. Unit Decimates Red Attack

SAIGON (AP) — Pounded by rockets and mortars and outnumbered two to one, fewer than 100 U.S. infantrymen fought off a North Vietnamese attack today while American helicopter gunships and fighter-bombers pounded the enemy.

Military spokesmen said 49 North Vietnamese bodies were found and there was not a single American casualty.

"They tried to recover their dead, but we chased them out," said 1st Lt. Toy Smith of Houston, Tex., commander of the 25th Division headquarters that battled the North Vietnamese for two hours 25 miles northeast of Saigon.

"They charged out of a bamboo thicket," Smith reported, "but we cut them down before they got anywhere near the perimeter."

The Americans called for imeter. We were lucky, with the volume of rocket-propelled grenades and automatic weapons they poured in."

Smith had anticipated the attack. On night patrol Tuesday, his troops spotted enemy soldiers on the move in small groups seven miles from the 25th Division headquarters at Cu Chi. Smith ordered his men to "dig in real deep."

At 1 a.m., about 200 North Vietnamese soldiers from the Cu Chi Regiment attacked behind a mortar barrage, a stream of rocket-propelled grenades and machine-gun fire.

"They definitely tried to overrun the position," said one officer. "There was no wire around our perimeter, only holes."

Draft Law Unconstitutional According To Federal Judge

BOSTON (AP) — A federal judge says the 1967 draft law violates the constitutional rights of atheists and agnostics by allowing conscientious objector status for religious reasons only.

"It is difficult to imagine any grounds for this statutory discrimination except religious discrimination," said U.S. District Court Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr.—and that, he held, is counter to the First Amendment.

The First Amendment states that "Congress shall make no law respecting the establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

Judge Wyzanski's ruling came in the case of John H. Sisson, 22 of Lincoln, Mass., recently convicted of violating the Selective Service Act by refusing induction into the armed forces. Sisson said he regarded the Vietnam war as "illegal and immoral."

Sisson came before the court for sentencing, but instead Wyzanski stayed sentence pending a decision by the U.S. Supreme Court on the question raised.

"Sisson is not in a formal sense a religious conscientious objector," the judge said. "His claim may seem less weighty than that of one who embraces a creed which recognizes a Supreme Being, and which has as part of its training and discipline opposition to war in any form."

However, the judge said, "When the state through its laws seeks to override reasonable moral commitments, it makes a dangerously uncharacteristic choice."

SCOPS Slates Meeting At OU-Chillicothe

Prehistoric and historic Ohio Indian artifacts will be featured at the 2 p.m. Saturday meeting of the South Central Ohio Preservation Society (SCOPS) at Bennett Hall, Chillicothe campus of Ohio University.

Dr. Thomas S. Smith, OU professor of Ohio History, will demonstrate audio-visual aids he developed for classroom presentation of Indian history.

This is the first of a series of SCOPS meetings about Ohio's first inhabitants. Members of the Mound City Chapter of the Ohio Archaeological Society will exhibit artifacts found in the SCOPS area.

In addition, Martin McKibben will show "finds" from Athens County, particularly The Plains area which is one of the three most prominent Adena Center in North America. Ross Goodwin of McArthur will display reproductions of Hopewell designs made by his father, H. R. Goodwin, when he was an Ohio Historical Society Museum curator.

John Davis, SCOPS president, reports the open meeting has been especially planned for history buffs, teachers and young people. Artifact collectors are welcome to take any special item to the stage for display before the meeting, he said.

Ike's Brother Still Remains At Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Milton Eisenhower remained in Walter Reed General Hospital here today while final rites were being conducted for his brother, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, 1,200 miles away.

Dr. Eisenhower, at 69 the youngest of two surviving brothers of the former president, is under medical observation.

He was taken to the hospital Monday after he complained of feeling tired and dizzy several hours before the state funeral service at Washington National Cathedral.

Doctors said Tuesday they were running tests which would take several days. Dr. Eisenhower was listed in satisfactory condition and there was no indication of whether serious illness was suspected.

Officer Awarded $5,000 Damages

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A Cleveland policeman who said he was injured by the open door of former President Lyndon B. Johnson's car in Cleveland in 1964 was awarded $15,000 in damages Tuesday.

U.S. District Judge Ben C. Green ruled that the mishap accelerated a chronic back disorder suffered by Patrolman Joseph A. Mazzarella, 48. Mazzarella was helping to control crowds at a downtown intersection during a Johnson campaign visit in October, 1964, when he was allegedly struck by the open door of the presidential vehicle.

Wilson Flies Back Home

LONDON (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson flew home from Africa today without seeing Biafran leader Odumegwu Ojukwu and with no agreement from the Nigerian government to stop bombing Biafran towns. Meanwhile, the Nigerians claimed a new offensive had brought their army within 16 miles of Umuahia, Ojukwu's headquarters.

As he was leaving Ethiopia after a 36-hour visit, Wilson told Prime Minister Tsehafe Habte Wold he was disappointed Ojukwu had not agreed to see him.

One Western diplomat in Addis Ababa speculated that the new Nigerian offensive may have been timed to keep Ojukwu busy so he could not meet with Wilson.

The head of the Nigerian government, Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon, rejected Wilson's overtures for an end to the bombing of Biafra. Gowon said the civilian bombing casualties which have caused much concern in Britain and America had been "staged-managed" by the Biafrans. He said the attacks disrupted flights bringing arms to the rebels and disorganized their ground forces.

In Ethiopia, Wilson met with Emperor Haile Selassie, head of the Organization of African Unity, and OAU Secretary Diallo Telli to discuss his trip to Nigeria and explain Britain's position on the civil war.

Chamber Seeks Water Study

Board of Directors of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce is asking city government to take a closer look at future water needs of the area.

In a resolution, adopted Tuesday by the board, directors asked city council to take a positive course of action regarding future plans for supplying water service to areas adjacent to the present city limits.

The chamber made the move in an effort to lure more industry to the Circleville area as well as providing the service to new residential developments.

Dr. William Myers, of the Health and Safety Committee, noted that about 1,500 bottles of Ipecac Syrup were distributed to area homes via two local drug stores during Poison Control Week March 16-22. The syrup is a vomiting inducing agent.

The board also heard a report from Wayne E. Smith, public relations chairman, on Chamber of Commerce Week observed locally last week.

Tom Elsea, representing the Congressional Action Committee, told directors of his trip last week to Cincinnati, where he participated in a closed circuit TV interview with officials in Washington D.C. The 27-city linkage with the nation's capital was sponsored by the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce.

Evans Trial To Resume

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The first-degree murder trial of Cleveland Black Nationalist leader Fred "Ahmed" Evans was to resume today with a pool of prospective criminal court jurors scheduled for questioning.

A venire of 69 prospective jurors called for the trial was exhausted Tuesday in Common Pleas Court and a defense motion for declaration of a mistrial was overruled by Judge George J. McMonagle.

At the close of Tuesday's session, 10 jurors had been tentatively seated, leaving two jurors and three alternates to be selected.

Evans, 37, is charged with the shooting deaths of three Cleveland policemen and a civilian during an outbreak of racial violence the night of July 23 last year in Cleveland's Glenville area.

Plans were being made to call a fresh venire of 30 jurors to the court Thursday.

Red Chinese Open Party Meet

TOKYO (AP) — The congress of the Chinese Communist party went into its first session since 1956 in Peking Tuesday and Chairman Mao Tse-tung gave an important address, Peking radio reported.

Red Chinese broadcasts have been saying for some time that the congress—expected to approve a new constitution drafted at Mao's direction—was forthcoming.

The constitution names Defense Minister Lin Biao as Mao's successor and opens the way for appointment as well as election to leading organs of the party.

In addition, Martin McKibben will show "finds" from Athens County, particularly The Plains area which is one of the three most prominent Adena Center in North America. Ross Goodwin of McArthur will display reproductions of Hopewell designs made by his father, H. R. Goodwin, when he was an Ohio Historical Society Museum curator.

John Davis, SCOPS president, reports the open meeting has been especially planned for history buffs, teachers and young people. Artifact collectors are welcome to take any special item to the stage for display before the meeting, he said.

Officer Awarded $5,000 Damages

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A Cleveland policeman who said he was injured by the open door of former President Lyndon B. Johnson's car in Cleveland in 1964 was awarded $15,000 in damages Tuesday.

U.S. District Judge Ben C. Green ruled that the mishap accelerated a chronic back disorder suffered by Patrolman Joseph A. Mazzarella, 48.

Mazzarella was helping to control crowds at a downtown intersection during a Johnson campaign visit in October, 1964, when he was allegedly struck by the open door of the presidential vehicle.

Wilson Flies Back Home

LONDON (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson flew home from Africa today without seeing Biafran leader Odumegwu Ojukwu and with no agreement from the Nigerian government to stop bombing Biafran towns. Meanwhile, the Nigerians claimed a new offensive had brought their army within 16 miles of Umuahia, Ojukwu's headquarters.

As he was leaving Ethiopia after a 36-hour visit, Wilson told Prime Minister Tsehafe Habte Wold he was disappointed Ojukwu had not agreed to see him.

One Western diplomat in Addis Ababa speculated that the new Nigerian offensive may have been timed to keep Ojukwu busy so he could not meet with Wilson.

The head of the Nigerian government, Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon, rejected Wilson's overtures for an end to the bombing of Biafra. Gowon said the civilian bombing casualties which have caused much concern in Britain and America had been

Commissioners Order Summit Funds Stretched

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Summit County commissioners have ordered department heads to stretch their individual salary budgets over the remaining months of 1969 rather than cut back services until July 1.

Commissioners decided Tuesday to waive an Ohio law requiring county office holders not to spend more than 60 per cent of their salary budgets before mid-year.

The commissioners had earlier ordered a 45 per cent cut in salary funds and most departments had planned drastic layoffs to meet the reduction. Sheriff Robert Campbell had planned to shut down his entire department starting this Friday.

Commissioners ordered the fund cuts March 21, saying they were needed if the county was to avoid a $2 million deficit this year.
